There'll Be No Backing Out on Peace River Power, Says Bennett

Premier Bennett said yesterday there will be no backing out by the Peace River Power Development Company on its commitments to develop the hydro potential of the Peace River.

"The agreement of intents which was signed is definite and is binding," the premier said. "The government position was clear-cut and constant from the start."

Although the premier would admit to answering no one—because everybody has a right to his own views—he was obviously referring to Monday's statements by Peace River president W. C. Mainwaring that the Peace project would be abandoned if Columbia power became available in B.C. before 1968, unless export were permitted, or if firm contracts were not obtained from the B.C. Power Commission and the B.C. Electric.

"Any person who is not in favor of developing both the Columbia and the Peace is not in favor of developing B.C.

"If you are not in favor of the Columbia you are holding back development of the Kootenays . . . If you are not in favor of the Peace you are holding back development of central and north B.C.

"Whenever in the past, power development has taken place, industries have come to that area," Premier Bennett observed. "The government wants both rivers developed as soon as possible. To delay 20 years as has been suggested would hold back the development of British Columbia."

Asian Flu Epidemic Sweeps Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An influenza epidemic sweeping Los Angeles since early last week has been officially blamed on Asian flu. Absenteeism in schools, business and government continued at a high rate of up to 20 per cent.

Public schools yesterday reported 115,000 students absent along with 2,750 teachers.

Among those stricken was actress Marilyn Monroe.

Editorial Commendable

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant yesterday said it would be physically impossible to set out University of Victoria buildings in the manner shown in the sketch in The Daily Colonist Sunday.

The largest building in the sketch runs right through Foul Bay Road and into private dwellings, he said.

CHANGE "MUST"

He called it a "fantastic concept. There is not plenty of space on the existing site for such a layout," he said. He added that the layout of buildings would have to be changed from the artist's conception if they are to be located on the existing site.

He said that a Colonist editorial yesterday stating that a switchover of plans to Gordon Head can be affected without the slightest delay or inconvenience was "quite commendable."

DOWN TO EARTH

"The editorial brought the matter down to earth . . . it took a better look," Mr. Chant said.

He observed that to establish on the Gordon Head site was the longer view and that to establish on the present Mount Tolime site was the shorter view.

"But everybody should support the University of Victoria whether it is at Gordon Head or Mount Tolmie," he added.

ASSOCIATE DEFENCE MINISTER SEVIGNY . . . NATO calls tune

Parley Sets Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — Associate defence minister Sevigny said Tuesday night the amount of the Canadian defence budget is set by NATO.

He said the defence budget of $1,700,000,000 was arrived at during the NATO ministerial meeting and that Canada agreed to this figure.

ONLY SIX MONTHS

Mr. Sevigny, a member of the cabinet for only six months, made the statement in reply to questions at a televised press conference.

He said the Canadian defence budget was set at NATO "by agreement."

Asked whether any decrease could be expected in the 1960-61 defence budget in light of his statement that NATO fixed the amount, he said the defence department would try to achieve the same goal at lower cost.

$100,000,000

Mr. Sevigny was asked whether Canada could cut $100,000,000 from the defence budget if NATO had set its amount.

"We'd be free to try" if it were found possible without impairing defence efficiency in line with Canada's NATO commitments, the minister replied.

At another point, Mr. Sevigny said the defence department is trying to "devise every possible weapon" which would serve to protect Canadians.

STATEMENT CLASHED

This statement clashed with those of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Defence Minister Pearkes that Canada cannot afford to develop its own major weapons system.

Mr. Sevigny said he hopes Canada will have weapons to counteract any attack but he did not specify these weapons.

IN EVERY FIELD

The defence department was trying to be as modern as possible "in every field" within the means at its disposal. It was trying to prepare for all-out nuclear war as well as limited or conventional wars.

Mr. Sevigny also said he doesn't believe Canada will will have a bigger defence budget unless there are "extraordinary circumstances."

Canada Gives Millions

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will give India $7,000,000 worth of wheat and $11,500,000 worth of aluminum, copper and nickel, External Affairs Minister Green announced yesterday in the Commons.

The aid, provided under the Colombo Plan for economic aid to South and Southeast Asia, will also include some $6,500,000 in fertilizer, deisel locomotives, electronic equipment and funds for nuclear and hydro-work.

370,000 In Canada Jobless

OTTAWA (CP)—Winter unemployment in Canada is rising at about the usual pace but the situation as 1959 closed out was better than a year earlier.

Monthly government figures released Tuesday showed jobless at about mid-December up by 74,000 in a month and employment down by 90,000.

Calling the unemployment total of 370,000 an alarming waste of manpower, president Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress offered to have the CLC meet with government and employer representatives.

Snow

Portland Paralyzed

PORTLAND (AP)—Snow spread over most of the Pacific northwest Tuesday night, nearly paralyzing Portland.

The snow piled up in drifts and clogged Portland area roads. It came down steadily for more than 24 hours here and business firms began closing at mid-day as the snow kept customers at home and made it uncertain that employees could get home.

SCHOOLS SHUT

Some decided not to try to get home, and hotels were filled.

Schools were closed in the Portland area Tuesday. They will remain closed today.

There were up to nine inches of snow in Portland's downtown area Tuesday evening, and up to one foot in the higher elevations of the West Hills section.

CHAINS VITAL

Weather bureau forecasters said the snow would continue falling here through the night and most of today.

Police cautioned motorists to use chains.

And at Salem, Governor Mark Hatfield urged Oregon residents to stay off the roads if travel isn't an absolute necessity.

Police said that at least three persons died while scooping snow off sidewalks — victims of apparent heart attacks.

41 Die, One Lives In Turkey Crash

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A French-made twin-jet plane of Scandinavian Airlines plunged into a hilltop within sight of Ankara's airport Tuesday night, killing 41 of the 42 persons aboard.

Two Canadian passengers were identified as Marielle Laurrenden and James Hopkins. There was nothing to indicate whether either might be the one survivor.

Airport experts said that although the weather was not ideal it had nothing to do with the crash.

The plane encountered heavy rain and wind as it approached Ankara.

The plane, bound from Stockholm and Copenhagen to the Middle East, carried 35 passengers and a crew of seven.

Mysterious Air 'Victim' In Canada?

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Robert Spears of Dallas, Tex., once reported dead in a now-suspicious airliner crash in the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 16, may be staying in a Windsor, Ont., hotel.

Assistant district attorney Julian Blodgett said last night he has received a telegram stating Spears is in Windsor under the name of William Taylor of Tampa, Fla., who may have been on the plane in Spears' place. Probe of the crash concerns a possible bombing.

Segregation Firm's Idea

OTTAWA (UPI)—A United States company operating the Distant Early Warning line in Canada's north acted on its own initiative in ordering complete white-Eskimo social segregation, Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton said yesterday.

The minister pointed out, however, that the original Canadian-American agreement of 1955 on DEW Line operations contained a provision that contact between white and Eskimo employees be avoided except in cases of necessity or emergency.

There was no specific government instruction, however, on a Dec. 10, 1959, order by Federal Electric Corporation of Paramus, N.J., which instructed its white employees—under threat of dismissal—not to fraternize with Eskimos, Hamilton added.

Mervyn A. Hardie (L-MacKenzie River), who raised the matter in the Commons, quipped that Hamilton should interpret the general regulation to Transport Minister George Hees whose 1959 Christmas card carried a picture of he and his wife standing with two Eskimo children.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—A $15,000,000 "Bible Storyland," complete with such features as a Garden of Eden and a Tower of Babel will be constructed at nearby Cucamonga, it was announced Tuesday.

The 220-acre park and amusement area will be in the shape of a heart, with Mount Baldy in the background, and will include rides such as a "Ride to Heaven" which ends at "the Pearly Gates" tended by "St. Peter."

"We are sure that 'Bible Storyland' will become a major attraction in the Los Angeles area," said the founders. "It will complement Disneyland and like Disneyland will become a 'must' for tourists from all over the world."

Expectant Queen's Spirits As High as Her Heels

LONDON (AP)—The Queen had British motherhood gasping Tuesday with a new fashion in expectancy — high heels.

Most doctors advise women to go into flats for the last two months of pregnancy. But the Queen, whose third baby is expected within weeks, came back to London Monday from her Christmas holidays with heels three inches high.

A physician consulted by a London newspaper took the high heels as a good omen.

"High heels are a sign of the Queen's high spirits and show that she is physically well," he said.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Fourteen Chicago police officers are charged with burglary. The prosecution says they are members of a gang, organized for theft.

Last year a number of highly respected people confessed lying publicly for pay, or acting a lie, on television.

Several television commercials have been proven dishonest. Numbers of others are equally dishonest, but no way has been found so far of proving the case against them.

Some politicians, caught telling outright lies, have grinned and tried to cover their faults by accusing their critics of something worse.

Some Approve It All

All these things have happened in recent times. I don't know whether or not the Chicago police are guilty. This has yet to be decided by a court. But a number of other policemen of certain North American cities have been found guilty of crimes.

It is nothing new for adult people in responsible positions to be caught lying and cheating. Such things have gone on since the beginning of time. What bothers me is the suspicion that such behavior is on the increase, and that it is, in some circles, approved behavior.

To people of this viewpoint, getting caught is just bad luck. There is no disgrace to it—except the disgrace of sloppy work.

I can't prove that a large number of people feel this way. But I feel strongly that a survey of ethics, conducted in Kinsey fashion under an oath of secrecy, would produce results that would shock the world.

Public Loves a Rogue

The lovable rogue has always been a favorite character in North America. He has taken many forms: the medicine show man who peddled syrup and water with a dash of alcohol for $1 a bottle; the Yankee who sold wooden nutmegs; the trader who sold a lame horse; the Robin Hood politician who made big money in graft but gave away most of it to the poor.

That was all right when the peddler sold his wares from a barrow, and the crooked political boss ruled a small town.

Nowadays, however, thanks to television and rapid transit, the huckster can stand up on his barrow and sell his wares to 40,000,000 people. The shady politician can control a state or a province, perhaps a nation.

All of a sudden, the lovable, comic rogue has become a monster whose shadow falls across thousands of miles.

TV Bidders' Pledge:

Mostly Canadian

VANCOUVER (CP)—Broadcasting schedules heavily loaded with Canadian programs in the evening were pledged to the Board of Broadcast Governors Tuesday by two applicants for Vancouver's second TV licence.

Biggest commitment came from Vantel Broadcasting Co. Ltd., headed by Arthur Jones, 34-year-old reporter-turned film producer. It promised 62 per cent Canadian content weekly between 8 and 11 p.m.

Pacific Television Co. Ltd., headed by financier F. Ronald Graham, said its Canadian content would reach 55.5 per cent in these hours. Both groups have placed heavy stress on local live productions and the use of British films, some of which count as 50-per-cent Canadian in BBG regulations.

Both of these commitments are, in terms of domestic content, the greatest yet made by any of the private groups seeking to enter competitive TV in Canada.

Vantel is the only group so far to say it has no other direct financial interest in any other TV or radio stations, or newspapers. Mr. Jones is president of Artray Ltd., a commercial film producing business.

Associated in Pacific Television with Mr. Graham are Frank McMahon and Lloyd Turner of Westcoast Transmission Co.; Col. Victor Spencer, financier; Walter Koerner, president of Rayonier of Canada Ltd.; Mrs. Frank Ross, wife of B.C.'s lieutenant-governor; Karl Springer, president of Pacific Western Airlines; Sir Denys Lowson, former Lord Mayor of London; Harold Bentall, vice-presdent of Dominion Construction Co., and H. L. Jestley, a lawyer.

Mr. Koerner has a 5.7 per cent interest in radio station CFUN, Vancouver and Mr. Graham holds 9.18 per cent of preferred shares of FP Publications Ltd., Winnipeg. None of the other shareholders has any interest in other media of communications.

Ernest L. Bushnell, former CBC vice-president, is a consultant to Pacific Television.

African House Faces No Confidence Motion

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters)—The leader of the opposition United party Tuesday night introduced a motion of no confidence in the government over its native policy.

Party leader Sir de Villiers Graaf said the government's theoretical solution for the color problem would signify a revolution in South Africa.

He said three factors had caused the government to introduce last year's promotion of the Bantu (African) self-government bill, which provides for the establishment of semi-autonomous tribal units within South Africa.

They were: World pressure on South Africa; the dissatisfaction of many members of the ruling National party and the expectations awakened in the minds of Africans by National party propaganda.

De Gaulle Criticized?

Massu Called Home By Jittery Paris

PARIS (Reuters) — President Charles de Gaulle summoned paratroop Gen. Jacques Massu from Algeria Tuesday to explain his reported criticism of de Gaulle's policies which were already under fire by white settlers there.

The sudden order to Paris came through the defence ministry as de Gaulle moved swiftly to check a growing challenge to his authority in the insurrection-torn North African territory.

Massu, a key figure in the 1958 Algerian army-settlers revolt which led de Gaulle back to power, has denied the criticisms.

MADE MISTAKE

The newspaper quoted Massu as saying the French army "perhaps made a mistake" in virtually acting as de Gaulle's shield-bearers in the "May revolt" of right wing settlers and army officers.

The report of Massu's criticism caused stocks on the Paris exchange to fall between five and eight per cent—reflecting fears of new trouble in Algeria, scene of a five-year-old nationalist revolt against French rule.

Snow-Buried Crop Aid Stirs Commons Storm

OTTAWA — The Liberals stirred up a Commons storm Tuesday over the government's procedure in agreeing to share the cost of acreage payments to Prairie farmers with snowed-in grain crops.

Paul Martin (L, Essex East) accused Prime Minister Diefenbaker of "dictatorship" and said he had improperly committed Parliament to expenditures already being made.

William Benidickson (L, Kenora-Rainy River) called it an affront to Parliament.

None of the Liberal critics, however opposed the actual payments.

Mr. Diefenbaker dismissed the criticism as "a dialectical argument about an imaginary unfairness done to Parliament" and said nothing has been done to deny Parliament the fullest opportunity to deal with the expenditure.

The dispute blew up suddenly as the Commons set aside the throne speech debate to deal with government legislation to aid Prairie grain farmers hit by early snows last fall.

What to Eat

How to Keep Fit

Stoke Up and Keep Moving

When Protein Drops Energy Falls Off

By LELORD KORDEL

(Third of a Series)

Several years ago I set out to answer to my own satisfaction the question of "how much protein is enough?"

Using myself as a guinea pig, for eight months I gradually and deliberately cut the amount of protein in my daily meals down to a point which I knew to be inadequate.

Every 24 hours I would consume only one medium-sized portion of either cheese, eggs, meat, fish or poultry. And about once a week I would skip the protein meal entirely.

During the first several months after the experiment began, I felt reasonably well. That is, nothing to brag about, yet, not exactly unwell in any recognizable way. But I did notice that an evening on the lecture platform or a day at my desk writing would leave me feeling head-and-body weary.

BODY-WEARY

This was the first definite symptom that all was not well with me, because my usual strenuous daily routines, either while traveling or at home, had never before induced in me this kind of fatigue. All I wanted to do was to sink into a chair and remain there in an exhausted kind of half-stupor, too weary to read or to converse with my family.

About the end of the seventh month of my self-imposed protein deficiency, I began noticing that my ordinarily good appetite was no longer so good.

In other words, I was not the man I used to be. I was losing my grip on youth.

YOUTH ON WAY

The time had now arrived to discover whether or not, after deliberately sending my youth on its way, I could coax it to return by building up the amount of protein in my daily meals.

Within a month after starting to eat three high-protein meals a day, I could sense a marked change for the better in my disposition. And not only was my zest for life definitely on the increase, but my face had lost its strained, weary expression, while the same daily routines no longer left me fatigued and chair-bound at night.

NOT ENOUGH

This is what my experiment proved to me: "Some" protein is not enough when you have that not-exactly sick, yet not-exactly-well feeling commonly associated with "beginning to get old."

At least 70 to 100 grams (2½ to 3½ ounces) of protein every 24 hours has been established as a minimum daily requirement for the average person with a good digestion. But here's the catch in this minimum figure:

If your digestive mechanism is not working efficiently, you may receive the benefit of only 40 to 60 grams of the 70 to 100 grams of protein you are eating each day.

LESS ACID

It's well to remember that along about the 40th birthday, in many persons the digestive secretions tend to become less and less acid, meaning that the stomach acids become less able to digest protein foods thoroughly enough so that maximum assimilation can take place through the intestinal walls into the bloodstream.

(Drinking sweet milk with meals, or taking baking soda and other "alkalizers" after meals, are sure ways of preventing the stomach juices from doing an efficiently acid digestive job on the protein foods you've eaten.) More than enough is safest with protein.

DAILY MINIMUM

The food portions mentioned below will provide a daily minimum of 75 grams of protein, that is, provided you can be certain that all this protein food is going to be digested thoroughly enough to assure complete assimilation into your bloodstream. These minimum portions of protein foods are listed merely that you may judge approximately how to double, even treble this minimum protein intake to meet your own bodily needs.

By no means am I recommending the following portions as adequate protein for three meals. These quantities are given for the sole purpose of allowing you to compare your own daily protein consumption with the absolute minimum for good health, so you may decide for yourself how far above, or far below, this minimum standard your meals will average:

MINIMUM STANDARDS

1 average serving of meat (fish, poultry included).
1 egg.
3 slices of whole grain bread.
1 pint of non-fat milk or its equivalent as powdered skim milk, buttermilk, sour milk, cottage or other cheeses.
1 serving of dried lentils, whole grain or seed cereal.

Medical experts say stomach pumping is probably the best single exercise you can take. Lloyd Percival describes, in detail, just how it is done.

1 serving of cooked green vegetables.
1 green salad.
1 serving of egg custard.
1 serving of fresh or cooked fruit.

Although it's easily possible for every man, woman and child in this country to get enough protein for an optimum diet, recent surveys have disclosed the alarming fact that the diets of from 50 to 60 per cent are dangerously lacking in protein. Because meat, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese and milk products are the most expensive food items, when the budget requires trimming these protein foods are either decreased or eliminated altogether in favor of low-cost starches.

Systematic Program Will Keep You Young

By LLOYD PERCIVAL

(Third of a Series)

Yesterday, I told you that you could be younger on your next birthday than you are now.

How? By beginning and maintaining a systamatic personal exercise program.

How should you begin? Here is the basic fitness program we suggest.

But before you begin it, one note of caution: You should have a thorough medical examination before undertaking this or any other fitness program. We also strongly suggest that you take this program to your family physician for his recommendation on any needed restriction.

THE WARMUP

Purpose: To make you feel like getting out of bed and going through with your basic program exercises.

Method: Lying in bed, give yourself as thorough a stretching as possible: stretch your arms overhead; arch your back; bring your knees up to your chest; stretch your legs out straight in front of you as far as possible; sit up and try to touch your knees with your head and generally twist, turn and stretch in every conceivable direction for two or three minutes.

Then lie quietly, letting all your muscles go as loose and limp as possible.

During this time try to breathe very slowly and deeply, letting all your muscles go loose and relaxed on the exhale.

Note: You will find that some days you will feel like exercising and will have no difficulty getting into it.

Other days you will feel a little logy and disinclined to get to work. On the tough days take your exercise just as you would a bad-tasting medicine that your doctor says you must take.

STOMACH PUMPING

Purpose: According to our tests and the opinions of many top ranking medical authorities, this is probably the best single health exercise you can do.

Method: Stand with your feet comfortably spread, knees bent, palms of hands on knees, head hanging down loosely.

Take a deep breath and hold it, pulling your stomach in as far as possible.

Hold for a count of four. Then, still holding your breath, puff out your stomach as far as you can.

Hold for a count of two and pull your stomach in again.

Pull in (holding for a count of four) and puff out (for a count of two) three times each and then exhale.

Every three or four days add another section of three until you are doing five sections.

Breathe easily for 10 or 15 seconds between each section.

In the same position but with no attempt to hold your breath, pull your stomach in as far as possible and then puff it out as far as you can.

Start slowly and gradually increase your speed until you are pulling in and puffing out as fast as you can.

Don't let the increase in speed of movement spoil the full in-and-out action.

Do for 20 seconds to start.

Add five seconds every three or four days until you have worked up to one minute.

In the same basic position (hands on knees, etc.), slowly exhale until completely out of breath. Then quickly pull in your stomach as far as possible and hold your breath, keeping your stomach in and trying to get it father in all the time.

Hold until you must take a breath, breathe easily for 10 to 15 seconds and repeat, only this time alternately pull your stomach in and puff out in quick, complete movements.

Alternate these two movements until you have done three of each. Add a movement every three or four days until you are doing five of each.

Next: Stationary running.

Peace Power Issue

Strachan Fears Socred 'Force'

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said yesterday it is now certain that "Peace power cannot be forced on B.C. without the deliberate and willing co-operation of the provincial government."

He based his remarks on a statement made here Monday by Peace River Power Development Co. president W. C. Mainwaring to the effect that the Peace scheme could not go ahead without firm contracts signed by the power commission and the B.C. Electric.

"By granting a water licence and forcing the B.C. Power Commission to sign contracts with the Peace River company, they (the government) will actively assist the promoters to make millions of dollars at public expense," Mr. Strachan said.

He charged that Mr. Mainwaring's statements that the Peace River power would supply all B.C. needs until 1975 were a confirmation of CCF warnings.

He warned that "Axel Wenner-Gren will, with the assistance of the Social Credit government, make a blatant attempt to force the people of British Columbia to purchase high-cost Peace power and delay the Columbia until 1975.

"This whole Wenner-Gren scheme, including the alienation of our natural resources and the franchise to build a railway, must be halted, and the Columbia must be developed by the B.C. Power Commission for the benefit of both the domestic and industrial consumer."

Finch Killing 'Plot' Bared by Convict

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A glib, fast-talking convict reeled off a fantastic story yesterday of hatching a murder plot with Dr. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff against a backdrop of drinking and gambling in Las Vegas.

John Cody, 29, here in custody from a Minnesota prison, told a murder trial jury he got his $1,400 fee—"$300 down and the rest when it is through"—after lying to the pair that he had killed Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch.

When she realized a few days later he had not done the job, Cody said she told him: "Jack, you can back out when you want to. But if you don't do it the doctor will do it. If the doctor doesn't do it, I will do it."

The state charges Finch shot his wife July 18 outside their Los Angeles home, with Carole helping him.

Earlier, actor Mark Stevens testified he tried vainly to persuade Mrs. Finch to carry a gun but got her to keep a jack handle in her home to protect herself.

Stevens said he told Mrs. Finch, an old friend, to "say hello with it (the jack handle) in the face" if the doctor attacked her.

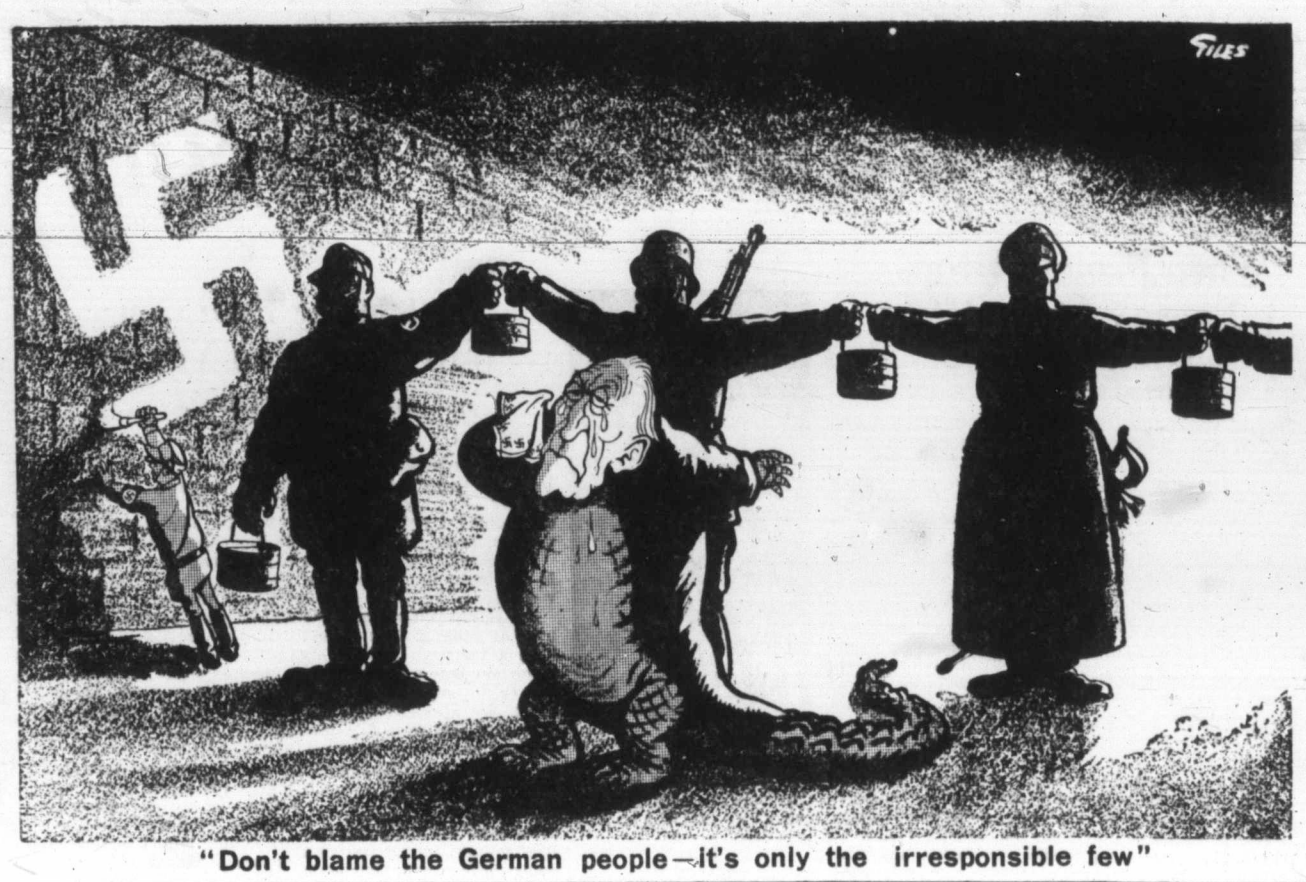
Russia Stayed Armed

THE primary cause of the world's present state, with power blocs armed to the teeth, was Soviet Russia's failure to disband its huge wartime armies after the close of hostilities in Europe. In the West generally nation after nation disbanded its war set-up, dispersed its emergency forces and tried to go back to a peacetime footing. As postwar years lengthened with no visible sign of Russia following, the Allied powers were forced to reconsider their own position, and primary in that was the urgent issue of security in western Europe. This led in due course to the North Atlantict pact and much that has happened since.

If in 1947 Soviet Russia had demobilized its wartime armies the suspicion, distrust and doubt engendered in international relations would not have arisen, or would have been a much easier obstacle to overcome than is proving the case now. But Russia, regardless of professions to the contrary, did not disarm. In the light of that pertinent fact, Premier Khrushchev's current assertion that Soviet Russia will demobilize 1,200,000 men from its forces can only be weighed against the past record. With armed forces of 2,500,000 left, such a scaling down would not by itself mean much.

Since he made his proposal for total disarmament within four years, Mr. Khrushchev has treated the West to a strange mixture of blandishments and veiled threats. The blandishments have come from the "man of peace"; the threats from the same quarter, and with very little change in action in between. Meanwhile the crucial issue affecting armaments in the world is due for some decision this spring by the ten-nation committee especially appointed for that purpose. It has been said often, and it will remain true, that the only proof of peaceful intentions that the world can now accept are actions which can have no dual interpretation whatever.



"Don't blame the German people—it's only the irresponsible few"

They Should Be Warned

HOW many motorists are aware that it is legally possible for them to be convicted of impaired driving even though they have had nothing to drink—may even be lifelong teetotallers? Yet the section of the Criminal Code under which charges of impaired driving are laid relates just as much to the consumption of drugs as of alcohol. It is the rarity of such cases which leaves most motorists ignorant of the risk involved in driving after taking any medicinal drug that may have a soporific or wit-dulling effect.

While in theory ignorance of the law is no excuse and everyone is supposed to know every law and bylaw governing his conduct, it is only fair that people should be sufficiently warned in matters of this sort. Usually the newspaper reports of a conviction, such as the one in Vancouver the other day, are the only warnings given to the public, and they may escape notice altogether or be soon forgotten.

Sleeping pills and tranquillizers of various kinds are the chief causes of non-alcoholic impairment, but not the only ones. Some of the antihistamines and other "wonder" drugs may cause dizziness or that "queer" feeling liable to have a bad effect on a driver's judgment. When antihistamines were put into general use—some without the necessity of a doctor's prescription—warnings were amply publicized, but little has been heard of them in the last few years.

In view of the unfortunate, embarrassing and possibly fatal results which may follow the taking of legitimate drugs it seems reasonable to suggest that both doctors prescribing and druggists selling them should be required by law to advise their patients or customers of the dangers if they attempt to drive. Bottles containing any medicine in that category should be clearly labelled as to the possible risks, in the way that poisons must be labelled; and doctors when making out prescriptions should tell their patients if there is a chance that faculties will be temporarily impaired.

Anyone who drives after taking a sleeping pill is asking for trouble; but even a motorist who knows the law may innocently commit a criminal offence if no one thinks to tell him that his medicine may affect his driving ability.

A Picayune Outlook

AT the moment at least the royal visit bust of the Queen is in the colloquial category of a "bust." It is more than six months since Her Majesty was here and the monument is still in storage. Nor has provision been made for its erection.

Sculptural difficulties caused the delay and are thus excusable. The squabble among the Greater Victoria municipalities over the cost of bust and landscape layout is not. This is as tiny a project as ever could engage the joint attention of either, and should not require more than a passing thought. That one municipality should reject a bill for $50 as part of the bust cost itself indicates the picayune outlook that prevails. Loyalty has obviously shrunk since last summer.

Even if parsimony condemned the bust to permanent "mothballs' the sculptor's fee would have to be paid. It is small enough in all conscience, only $350. The cost of pedestal and landscaping would bring the total outlay to around $1,000, a sum which if shared by all four municipalities should cause no one the loss of any sleep.

Let us have done with any more petty discussion, however. If budgetary worries are so large that the royal bust will embarrass four treasury chests there is another resource that might be tapped. Some $15,000 was left over from this area's centennial budget of 1958, not yet disposed of. Perhaps this surplus could come to the rescue of the royal visit tribute.

One would hope at least that the trustees of this fund would have larger and more loyal vision, and would be willing to bring an unpleasing episode to an end by restoring some of the dignity that should attend a matter of this kind.

Interpreting the News

Trade Rivalry Is Concern

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE United States, after months of delay, has finally decided to use its persuasive influence in attempts to prevent Europe's six-country Common Market from turning into a highly discriminatory trade bloc.

Livingston Merchant, deputy undersecretary of state, has given assurances to Latin American diplomats the U.S. will do everything in its power to bar Common Market discrimination against exports from South and North America.

This is news for Canada, for the Canadian government has frequently urged the U.S. to take a more active part in Europe's rejuggling of economic alliances and markets, particularly to prevent possible strangulation of Britain's markets on the continent.

As a result of the Big Four Western summit conference last month, a special conference of all the countries involved—including the U.S. and Canada — was held in Paris on Jan. 12-13 in the hope of forming some kind of bridge between the Common Market and the Outer Seven which includes Britain.

The Common Market, which embraces France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, aims at developing within the membership a sort of tariff-free "United States of Europe."

One round of tariff cuts already has been ordered, and a second one of 10 per cent is to go into effect next July. At the same time the Outer Seven, including Britain, Sweden, Norway and Denmark, also will make tariff cuts within its own membership, setting up in effect two distinctive trade blocs.

The danger for the Western alliance is that Europe may thus become sharply split, increasing prospects of economic enmity and rivalry and the possibility of stiffening discrimination by both blocks against competing goods from the Western hemisphere.

Perhaps the reason the U.S. has not acted sooner in response to Canada's wishes if that it didn't want to stir up new trouble with French President de Gaulle—and perhaps because there wasn't too much American sympathy with Britain's reasons for splitting with de Gaulle on original free trade arrangements.

As originally proposed by Britain, the six-country Common Market would have become a larger 17-country industrial free trade area. But de Gaulle and his continental colleagues wouldn't accept that idea unless Britain pulled out of the Commonwealth preferential tariff system, at least as far as agricultural products were concerned. Britain refused and the two rival blocs resulted.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WORD comes out of Ottawa that when the bill for abolition of capital punishment comes up for debate in the House of Commons, a "free" vote will be allowed.

That is to say, MPs will be at liberty to decide for themselves and not as their parties decree. It is reported that all three party leaders have lent themselves graciously to "this freedom," as a best-selling book title once put it in a different context.

Now of course so much publicity about MPs having their shackles removed rather draws attention to the normal rote in Parliament, which, obviously, is that MPs are not free to vote as they will. I hope Mr. Khrushchev is not reading the Canadian newspapers these days, since we are always talking about the lack of freedom in Russia and this instance of a "free" vote might be embarrassing.

We have at our disposal of course the rebuttal that servitude at Ottawa—or James Bay or other places—may last only four years, whereas at Moscow it has lasted forty and more years and there is never talk of any "free" vote at all over there.

Still and all a "free" vote does point up the ones—greatly in the majority—that are not quite so free. An MP will not be shot or sent off to a lonely post in the Arctic if he differs from his party, of course, but he will scarcely be persona grata if for instance he votes with the other side.

I suppose we have to remember that Parliament, like democracy in general, is not perfect but that our system seems to suit us fairly well. It gives the most room for all-round freedom, although by constantly asking governments to do this, that and the next thing we are chipping away at our liberties. The more governments are asked to do inevitably the more authoritative they must become.

As the Ottawa Journal puts it, government has to be carried on in a cohesive, effective way, and it must be conceded that the party system has evolved as the best instrument for this purpose. It does tie a government together and ensure continuity and thus collective responsibility for its actions The same considertions affect opposition parties.

The alternative would be a Parliament of individuals, none bound to any discipline or unity of action, which putting it mildly would be a somewhat upsetting way of doing business. The Journal touches on this aspect by citing pre-de Gaulle French governments, changing every few months. The trouble there, however, was not so much unstable government as the fact that a change of administration did not necessitate an election. If it had that would have made a deal of difference; elections are salutary affairs.

Our party cohesions seem to be carried a bit far, however; they have reached the point where independence of mind is frowned on severely, and undue emphasis is given to the party line. Parliament would be the better for freer discussion, with more give and take between parties. Not all the genius is on one side of the House or on the other.

If I were a prime minister I think I would welcome as many "free" votes as I could get; this would get me out of awkward corners and, incidentally, would allow Parliament to be the supreme arbiter on difficult problems. That is what it was supposed to be, by the way.

Letter from London

The Monarchy's 300 Years

BY RICHARD L. THOMAS

THE most important historical event which should be celebrated in 1960 is possibly the restoration of the British monarchy in 1660 after 11 years of dictatorship under Cromwell. It seems from present arrangements that the British government has no intention of celebrating the event formally, and the postmaster-general is not even contemplating the issue of special postage stamps. It would almost seem that the monarchy along with the word Empire is something which one does not talk about.

Charles II was restored to the throne on Oak Apple Day—May 29, 1660—and it seems that the main celebrations of the tercentenary will be in the hands of the Royal Stuart Society, which has a personal interest in Charles as King of Scotland during the dictatorial interegnum, and an organization known as the Monarchist League. No doubt some others will turn up between now and May.

But the inference is that the government feels that this is not quite the time to start a monarchic celebration—especially in view of the fact that a royal baby is due early in the year. It may, of course, have something to do with the summit conferences because indirectly it might serve to emphasize that England had at one time chopped off the heads of monarchs which, someone has suggested, might mean a point to the Russians.

On the other hand that was 300 years ago, and it might do the Russians good to realize that in most things they are still about 250 years behind the times, even though German scientists helped them to have a look at the other side of the moon.

Even so, we could have had a postage stamp—maybe incorporating portraits of Charles II and the royal baby.

There is, of course, always hope that the government will change its mind or that some Dominion will take the initiative and celebrate the restoration of the monarchy even though it happened before they were born and, in most cases anyway, even discovered.

There seems to be no particular reason why we should be so modest about the monarchy. It could hardly embarass the United States after the Queen's reception in Chicago last year, and it seems strange that while the Foreign Office is perfectly willing to celebrate Independence Day and everyone is happy to toast the United States every July 4, the Commonwealth Relations Office is mildly apprehensive about May 29 which marks the beginning of 300 years of continuous monarchy.

Indeed the evolution of the British monarchy might well be an object lesson to many republicans. There is more than a measure of convenience about having a permanent head of state unaffected by the winds and gales of political argument, and there is historical significance in the King of Scotland becoming King of England and eventually the Queen of England becoming Queen of Canada and all other of her realms and territories. Apart from that we recognize many less reputable occasions in our island history—Guy Fawkes for example.

It has been suggested, too, that it might be a good idea to emphasize to the dictatorial nations of today that we in Britain tried it out 300 years ago and gave it up after only 11 years—or is it that we are simply sensitive creatures who like to pretend that our monarchy was never interrupted?

Whatever it is it seems that we will have to celebrate the occasion without the help of the government unless, of course, they change their mind. At the moment, however, they are strangely insensitive as though that any emphasis on the monarchy would revive some latent republicanism or lead to too close an examination on the paradox of the present monarchy—a head of state without real power, but not without great influence.

Strange but true, nations which have lost their monarchs realize better than most that the loss is not illusory. Indeed the hope of some return to democratic government in Spain seems to be bound up in the restoration of the monarchy. The monarchy is still a live issue in Italy. Germany, of course, finds republicanism almost repugnant.

The strange thing is that no one is unmindful of the anachronisms, the paradoxes and occasionally the absurdities; but there is no doubt that there is also a sense of security and continuity and there is something to be said for an example of aloofness from the day-by-day worries and a recognizable symbol of unity. Indeed it seems a pity that we cannot celebrate officially 300 years of royal occasions—it would at least be good for trade.

False Senility

(From The Montreal Gazette)

IT is so often said these days that science has lengthened the span of human life. But Dr. Wilder G. Penfield has pointed out that this is a mistaken idea.

Science, he says, is not really making people live longer; it is only enabling them to live as long as they ought always to have lived. It has only helped man to reach life's true goal, by bypassing plagues and disease.

What difference does this distinction make? A very great difference indeed. For it means that science is not making people live longer than they normally ought to, by spinning out senility. It is, rather, enabling people to enjoy more years of useful life.

Only when this fact is accepted will people come to realize that they ought not to give in to what Dr. Penfield calls "false senility." They ought to go on working and being useful as long as they have the health and will.

Rest homes for those still able-bodied and able-minded are not the answer. The answer may lie in better and longer opportunities for some kind of useful endeavor. Science's achievement in lengthening life is something far better and more natural than the lengthening of dotage.

No Lynch Law

(From The Toronto Telegram)

A GERMAN-language editor in Vancouver has come up with the shocking and repulsive proposal that the way to deal with swastika painting is to organize a vigilante committee to catch the offender. Where does he think he is?

The editor in question is Dr. B. W. Hoeter, described as a leader of Vancouver's German-speaking community. He says he will organize vigilantes to catch the person who has been daubing anti-Semitic symbols and slogans on walls in Vancouver.

The idea of a vigilante committee is based on the assumption that the cure for anti-Semitism is a lynching party. The best advice to Dr. Hoeter is to forget it. Swastika painting is an evil sickness of the mind, but anyone advocating violent and illegal measures to deal with it is ludicrously out of touch with the Canadian way of life. The Hoeter proposal will be regarded by many as a typical Germanic reaction that reflects upon German-Canadian communities, for which he purports to speak. His nonsense should be disowned without delay.

The way to catch the swastika painter in Vancouver is to leave this nuisance to the police. Anyone who can assist the police, of course, should do so. But the idea of adopting lynch law is so revolting that it should jolt the German-Canadian community in Vancouver and elsewhere into action to clean up the mental pollution that gives rise to it.

From the Scriptures

If this man were not of God, he could do nothing.—St. John, 9:32.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

OBVIOUSLY the means of communication have now outstripped what we have to communicate.

We have got the most fantastic machinery for communicating with one another—radio, TV, an enormously expanded press, world-wide hook-ups so that everybody everywhere knows what everybody else is doing, saying, thinking, what they look like in ten-color reproduction. Unfortunately, we are all doing, saying and thinking the same old thing every day, and our looks do not change no matter what trickery is employed in color photography nor how many little cartoons we invent to represent us in the commercials.

What science is really doing to us 20th century inhabitants of the globe is demonstrating to us what little we have to say, other than the same old thing. Hang it, we may go down in history, after all, as the inarticulate century that couldn't think of anything better to do than shoot rockets into empty space.

All we are doing in the way of communicating with one another is making our squabbles general instead of local.

Can't somebody please come up with a new idea, a new song, a new tune, a new dance, a new plot, just to distract us from the wrangling for an hour?

With the Classics

Behold the child, by nature's kindly law,
Pleased with a rattle, tickled with a straw:
Some livelier play-thing gives his youth delight,
A little louder, but as empty quiet:
Scarm, garters, gold, amuse his riper stage,
And beads and prayer-books are the toys of age:
Pleased with this bauble still, as that before;
Till tired he sleeps, and life's poor play is o'er.

Deserted Wives

There has been a good deal said about a family court for this area. One of the reasons for a court is assistance for deserted wives. At the present time a good deal of expense is occasioned by the welfare for this purpose.

The Unemployment Commission can trace these erring husbands, but are not permitted to divulge any information. Legislation could be instituted to enable welfare agencies to obtain information necessary to prosecute these people.

An amendment to the divorce laws is vitally necessary. Divorce should be available and recognized as essential to well-being on other grounds than that of adultery. Desertion for three, five or seven years and cruelty are two reasons why the marriage could be annulled. Although this would conflict with some religious beliefs, freedom of religion is one of Canada's tenets.

Grateful Family

We would like to thank your reporters, Mr. Harris and Mr. Smith, for their understanding and their rapid help. It was due to the publicity in the newspapers that we were able to locate our daughter so quickly.

May we also express our deep appreciation to the Saanich Police, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and those people who worked so unselfishly to help a very grateful family.

MR. AND MRS. F. V. WINCH.

Help in Need

There are some things in life which are quite impossible to express in words. How can one begin to express thanks to the many, many people who have showed such deep concern and kindness toward my family and me since the sudden and tragic death of my husband last July? To personally thank everyone as I would like to do would be an immense and impossible task because many remain anonymous.

However, there are a number of clubs, organizations and societies to which I would like to give special thanks. They are the Lions' Club of Langford, whose efforts made it possible to pay off the mortgage on our home; the Langford Fire Department and its Ladies' Auxiliary, who helped conduct a door-to-door canvass for funds to make this possible; the fire departments of lower Vancouver Island who sponsored a benefit dance to help raise funds for this endeavor, and the Kinsmen's Club of Victoria, who raised the balance so that this mortgage might now be paid in full.

My thanks also go to Mr. W. Wainwright, Boorman Investments and the legal firms of Sullivan and Smith. I would also take this opportunity to thank the Canadian Legion, St. Edwards' Branch No. 91, and Rev. H. Behling for their help; the Dorcas Society of Belmont Lutheran Church, the Colonist "500" Christmas Fund, and all others who so thoughtfully remembered us at Christmas, and finally the Langford Fire Department, who saw to it that we were amply provided for at Christmas.

And last, but not least, I would again like to thank the many who directly or indirectly helped us through their prayers, words and deeds and who contributed in any way toward easing our burden. To one and all, then, a grateful "thank you," and may our Heavenly Father bless you as He has so graciously blessed us.

Welsh Accent Pays $12,500

LONDON (AP) — An English woman won $12,500 damages Tuesday for injuries that left her with a Welsh accent. At least, that's what her lawyer contended.

The judge remarked that she sounded to him more like a Cockney.

Mrs. Marion Evans, 49, was in a car collision 3½ years ago and sued George Bates, driver of the other car.

She lost five teeth and her tongue was cut. When she started talking again, she didn't sound like the same woman.

"Her speech," testified husband Edward Evans, a Welshman, "now has a different intonation or brogue. Also, she is unable to kiss me because her mouth is too tender."

Leonard Wilpmore, an expert who gave her speech treatments, said she had "a most peculiar accent, like nothing I had ever heard before."

Peanuts, Lima Beans Space Man's Diet

NEW YORK (UPI) — A space man's diet may consist largely of peanuts and lima beans, scientists suggested today.

Three researchers reported on their "peanut-oriented" diet studies to the sixth annual meeting of the American Astronautical Society.

Eight diets were devised—four featuring the peanut proteins and four based on the proteins of the lima bean.

"Each diet," the report stated, "will furnish a daily intake of 2,800 to 3,000 calories, energy sufficient to sustain a young male performing light duties."

One of the diets suggested would be four cups of roasted peanuts, one cup of collards and 25 grams of yeast per day. Another diet would consist of lima beans, peanuts, potatoes and collards.

Discrimination Ruled Out In Central Mortgage Deals

OTTAWA (CP) — Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation "subscribes fully to non-discrimination in all its transactions," a letter tabled Tuesday in the Commons stated.

It was from Works Minister Walker to Windsor city council, which had asked for an anti-discrimination provision in the National Housing Act.

All contracts of CMHC, the government's housing agency, provide that contractors cannot refuse employment on "grounds of race, national origin, color or religion," Mr. Walker's letter stated.

Nor was there any discrimination in approving purchasers of homes built with CMHC-insured loans.

'It's Terrible'

Warren Heats Up Over City Icicles

George I. Warren was hopping mad yesterday after seeing a photograph in a Vancouver paper which showed the Douglas Street Roundabout fountain covered with icicles more than one foot long.

"It's terrible," said the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau commissioner. "They like to think we're in the same clime as they are over there, and it leads people to think we've got icicles hanging from our rooftops."

Caption beneath the icy fountain picture read:

"Winter's hand transformed this bubbling fountain into a glistening bowl of icicles during a cold snap in Victoria recently."

Mr. Warren said he has seen no ice in Victoria this winter. "I'm not accusing the paper of taking that picture 10 years ago," he fumed, "but, my only question is, 'How recently was it taken?'."

There haven't been icicles on the fountain for at least three years.

Row Housing Idea 'Not Worth Nickel'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver builder told a Royal Architectural Institute of Canada committee Tuesday he wouldn't put five cents into a row housing development in this city "for fear I'd lose my shirt."

H. L. Huff, who assisted in presentation of a Vancouver Metropolitan House Builders' Association brief to the committee, placed the blame for urban sprawl on financing procedure and lack of adequately trained planners.

He suggested a revolving fund of money such as a national bank which would provide current interest rates.

Builders were far closer to the market than the architect, he said. A 32-home sample project of California-styled houses took a year to sell because they were not traditional.

Tom McGrath, chairman of the association, told the committee Vancouver families want to own their own homes and they want detached buildings, not row houses.

Among the points contained in the brief:

House design is generally not influenced by architects; the man buying a home is price-conscious not design-conscious; builders do not want to gamble on architects' "ideal homes"; current mortgage lending in Canada is not conductive to good planning.

The committee has held hearings in major cities across Canada. The Vancouver hearings end today.

Architects Should 'See Life'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian architects were invited by a member of their own profession Tuesday to "get off their high-horse draughting stools" and into the arena of community living.

They should get down into the community even if it means getting their feet dirty in the day-to-day world, said James Dudley, and they should speak out oftener about what they like and do not like.

Mr. Dudley said architects "should be leaders in creating better residential areas."

"Give the client a better building even at our risk. Use our persuasive powers in achieving our end and use education—not legislation—to show what we can do."

He advocated housing clinics to give advice and guidance on a free or moderate fee basis and suggested services of an architect be mandatory for all buildings.

100,000,000 Would Die In Invasion

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rep. Craig Hosmer estimated yesterday that a Communist invasion of the United States would take 60,000,000 to 100,000,000 American lives if the Soviet Union were to throw its entire arsenal into action.

Hosmer predicted that if the Communists ever decided to attack, they would move mainly against the population.

Debris Sighted Off Comox

RCAF to Drag Jet Crash Area

RCAF will resume a search early today for a Comox-based CF-100 jet fighter that plunged into Georgia Strait east of the air station early yesterday with two officers aboard.

Crash area was narrowed down to a point about five miles east-southeast of Cape Lazo, which is four miles east of Comox, after debris from the disintegrating aircraft was spotted floating on the surface of the sea late yesterday afternoon.

Search by RCAF crash boats and civilian craft was called off at dusk, but was set to resume at daybreak today.

400 FEET

A Comox air station spokesman said the plane is believed to be in about 400 feet of water and that attempts will be made today to drag the area where the debris was sighted.

Missing and presumed dead in the crash are FO Bryan Shaw, 24, of North Vancouver, the pilot, and FO Gordon Davis, 22, of Calgary, navigator.

The jet was on a routine training flight and had just completed a trial pass over the RCAF airfield when it crashed at 1.20 a.m. A loud explosion was heard at the base and the tug Florence Fillberg reported seeing a red flare.

RCAF discounted reports of a yellow dye—normally automatically ejected from a downed CF-100—being spotted on the sea during the early part of the search. It was probably floating wood pulp, an official said.

An oil slick was sighted during the day about 13 miles east of Comox. Samples of the oil were to be tested to see if it could have come from a jet plane.

Late in the afternoon, however, the air force said it was believed the plane had gone down in the area originally pin-pointed after the small chunks of debris were found.

Taking part in the search yesterday were two RCAF crash boats, civilian craft and land search parties that combed shorelines in the area.

Until 9 Friday?

Parking Meter Debate Slated

Operation of parking meters until 9 p.m. Fridays will be debated next week by city council.

Public works committee yesterday asked the city engineer to report direct to council on the question, "and if he's in favor of it," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, "we'll support him."

Works committee also:

● Decided to send to the Capital Improvement District Commission next week a brief outlining two possible plans for an outdoor, salt-water swimming pool at, or in the field above, Horseshoe Bay.

● Recommended that the B.C. Telephone Company be allowed to place two telephone booths on the new city parking lot, one on the Cormorant side and the other on the Fisgard side.

● Recommended that the Greater Victoria school board be notified of the city's intention to use, for the eventual northerly extension of Blanshard, part of the city-owned property on Hillside now used as a playing field for S. J. Willis Junior High School. (Ald. Austin Curtis said he understood this property was not part of the area for which Victoria is seeking payment from the school board.)

Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean suggested Friday evening operation of the parking meters.

The meters had been put in mainly to regulate parking, he said, "and it seems reasonable that because a parking problem exists on Friday night, we should consider having the meters in operation."

OVEREMPHASIZED

City Manager C. C. Wyatt said he thought the difficulties of parking for theatres with the meters in operation had been overemphasized when the proposal was discussed once before and rejected.

City Engineer James Garnett estimated an unheated, dammed swimming pool and dressing facilities in Horseshoe Bay would cost "something in the order of $160,000."

NOT ADULTS

Because of the water temperature, he suggested, children and teen-agers would be happy to use it, but not adults.

A heated pool between Dallas and the top of the cliff with dressing facilities would cost between $160,000 and $200,000, he estimated.

The committee asked Mayor Percy Scurrah to take both ideas to a CIDC meeting to see if the commission would consider them.

Winnipeg	41	16	23	2	141	144	34
Spokane	46	13	32	1	130	202	27

Last night's score: Edmonton 1 at Vancouver 4.

Next games: Tonight, Edmonton at VICTORIA; Seattle at Spokane; Calgary at Winnipeg.

Edmonton's rugged Flyers, led by rambunctious Pete Goegan, will be at Memorial Arena tonight and Victoria Cougars and their fans can be sure of an interesting evening.

Leading the league in penalties with 518 minutes for 43 games—the Cougars have 344 minutes for the same number of games—the Flyers were, until Sunday, cutting their usual late-season swathe through the Western Hockey League.

Before leaving on their last trip to the Coast they had won 10 of 12 games. They were stopped in overtime at Seattle Sunday and 4-1 by the Canucks in Vancouver last night. It's a set of circumstances hardly likely to make things easier for the Cougars tonight.

Goegan, 25-year-old brother of former Victoria defenceman Fiori Goegan, has been making his presence felt in more ways than one since he was sent to the Flyers, 26 games back, by Detroit Red Wings.

It's rumored that the 200-pound defenceman is anxious to return to Cleveland of the American Hockey League and that he decided the best way to be shifted was to tear things, mostly opposition players, apart.

He has had considerable success. He has laready spent 85 penalty minutes, received a match misconduct for pushing an official and been responsible for a stiffer rule regarding spearing.

It used to cost players an automatic $10 fine for this offence, but after Goegan was nabbed four times, league officials increased the fine to $25 for the first offence, with a rising scale which calls for $10 extra for each additional spearing call. Under the new rule, Goegan would have paid out $160 instead of $40.

TOO SUCCESSFUL

But Goegan has been defeating his own purpose, if it's true he wishes to return to Cleveland. He has established himself as one of the more colorful players in the WHL and the Flyers would certainly be loathe to let him go. And five goals in his last three games makes him a doubly attractive asset.

His blazing shot gave the Flyers a 1-0 lead in last night's rough-and-tumble action, which featured some of the heaviest bodychecking seen in a WHL game this season and sent 4,400 fans home anxious to have another look at the Edmontonians.

But Flyers couldn't get untracked again against persistent Canuck checking and the Vancouver club, led by their newly-acquired centre, Gordie Vejprava, had it all sewed up by the early part of the second period.

Defeat left the Flyers three points behind the third-place Cougars and without any games in hand.

LOOKING UP

The Cougars, however, are more interested in second place at the moment being only four points behind Seattle with two games in hand, and their first thought tonight will be to gain on the Totems rather than the Flyers.

Victoria has so far had good success against Edmonton, once the jinx club. Cougars won both games played here previously, 6-4 and 4-1, and in Edmonton lost by 2-3 and tied, 3-3.

Cougars are at full strength and manager-coach Hal Laycoe plans no lineup changes other than to give Don Blackburn more ice time, which means Doug Anderson will see considerable action at centre.

Edmonton—Goal, Riggin; defence, Strate, Macpherson, Goegan, Coflin, Haddon; forwards, Kennedy, Dejordy, Holmes, Poile, Achtymichuk, Hynes, Diachuk, La Bossiere, McNeill.

Russian Olympic Six May Play Here

Russia's Olympic Games hockey club, which at the moment appears to be the favorite to win the championship at Squaw Valley, Calif., next month, may play in Victoria some time in March.

Joe Dukowski, manager of Memorial Arena, announced yesterday that he is currently attempting to negotiate arrangements which would bring the Russian team here for a post-Olympic appearance.

"I don't know at the moment whether or not we will be able to get the Olympic team," Dukowski said, "but if we can't get them I think we will almost certainly be able to arrange an appearance of the Moscow Selects."

Selects, said by the Russians to be their second best club, are touring Canada and have already played two games. They were beaten, 8-4, by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's Olympic team, on Sunday. Last night the Selects lost to Whitby Dunlops, 9-1, but they are expected to prove much tougher in subsequent games and have two or three players who are expected to join the Olympic club.

If the Russian Olympic team agrees to play here, opposition will be imported, Dukowski said. He will try to bring in one of the Okanagan Hockey League clubs, probably Kelowna.

Dukowski also said that it is likely that the West German Olympic team will play here after the Olympic hockey tournament. Negotiations for their appearance are also going on and chances that they will be successfully completed appear to be good.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Bill McColl, easy winner of the first half of the city's winter medal competition, is going to be tough to shake off in the second series.

He shared the lead with clubmate Laurie Kerr in the first of the final three rounds as both shot 73s. The three-over-par scoring is probably explained by the tricky greens. Some, like the third, were hard with frost while others in more open positions were soft and slow.

Behind the Colwood stars Sunday were Frank Scroggs and Kenny Lawson of Upands and Vince Clarkson of Colwood. All three posted 74s.

Ron MacLeod, who had been playing great golf in the button matches, started off with a par 35 on the first nine but slipped to a 42 coming home. More than 40 competed Sunday. The next round will be played at Gorge Vale.

★ ★ ★

Sunday's buttons match at the Gorge will see Ron MacLeod and Roy Chappell of Victoria Golf Club making a third defence when they oppose the Uplands team of Frank Scroggs and Bob Morrison. Scroggs and Morrison are a colorful pair who several years ago ruled the buttons roost for nearly a full year.

★ ★ ★

As one who has more or less split his golfing experiences between the large (American) ball and the small (British) ball, I find it difficult to understand why British golfers should continue their preference for their ball.

While the British ball, smaller and heavier, undoubtedly travels further, I find it is not nearly so easy to handle on or around the greens as the American ball, and that what is lost in length is easily made up in the short game. You know the old saw "Drive for pleasure, putt for dough."

Throughout the last three decades when the two countries have played different-sized balls, it has been obvious in open and international competition that the U.S. supremacy has been chiefly around the greens.

It is surprising that this has not been realized by those British tournament professionals to whom every shot saved means money. But apparently they have regarded it more important that they should play the ball that gives them greater length off the tee and also less susceptibility to the action of adverse winds.

Now, however, Dai Rees, the British Walker Cup captain whose team last fall suffered another humiliation in California, has persuaded the promoters of a British tournament to stipulate the use of the larger ball. Rees has, it seems, seen the light, and it will be interesting to see how the other British players react to the large ball contest when it comes along next summer.

Four Shaughnessy Golf Club members from Vancouver showed their keenness for the game and their faith in Victoria's climate last Saturday.

With their own course unplayable because of snow, they caught the 7 a.m. plane from Vancouver and were on the first tee at Victoria golf course shortly after 9.

After playing their round, they took an afternoon plane back to Vancouver to arrive home in time for dinner.

Victoria did its stuff weatherwise, and the visitors said they had had a wonderful day.

This experience is in sharp conflict with the picture reproduced on Monday in a Vancouver paper showing Victoria's Fountain Circle covered with icicles and deep snow in the background.

No doubt a relic of Victoria's last cold snap—about 1956, if I remember—the calumnious production roused Alastair Campbell, president of Uplands Golf Club, to such wrath that he rang me to say that the Upland's greens staff was at that moment cutting the fairways on the course—a first and delightful harbinger of spring.

In a city office, I noticed a vase of snowdrops, picked from the sunny bank of a Victoria garden.

Vancouver may take our industries; but they can't rob us of our climate as easily as all that.

Oak Bay Cinches Tie For Basketball Title

Oak Bay regained first place in the Inter-High School Basketball League and clinched at least a tie for the championship by walloping North Saanich, 63-20, Tuesday afternoon at Oak Bay.

It was the final game of the regular schedule for Oak Bay and gave the team an 8-1 record. Victoria High Totems, defending champions, are second with a 7-1 mark and will complete their schedule Tuesday, Feb. 2, against lowly Royal Oak.

If Oak Bay and Victoria High end the season in a tie, the teams will meet in a sudden-death playoff.

Oak Bay had little trouble in winning Tuesday's game, jumping to a 23-6 lead at the half. The winners led, 44-11, entering the final quarter.

Top scorer for Oak Bay was John Fraser with 12 points. Peter Kerr and Mike Cranston added 11 each, while Lee Gould had 10.

Leading scorers for North Saanich were Ed Lock and George Moulton with six points each.

North Saanich—Bill Knowles, Bill Brain 3, Ed Lock 6, Doug Richardson 4, J. Eckert 1, Doug Jordan, Mike Nunn, George Moulton 6. Total 20.

Oak Bay—Dave Pollock 8, Dave Krasney 9, John Fraser 12, Peter Kerr 11, J. Camp 2, Mike Cranston 11, Lee Gould 10. Total 63.

DOUG HARVEY
. . . back on top

Howe, Harvey Rated the Best— WHL Grads Lead Rookie Poll

MONTREAL—Gordie Howe and Doug Harvey, a couple of veteran troupers who have a habit of collecting silverware; Don McKenney, getting his first chance to get a post-season award, and two rookies fresh from the Western Hockey League hold the half-way leads for the four major National Hockey League trophies following mid-season voting.

Most certain to hold his lead and come out on top when season's-end votes are added to the half-way vote is Harvey, the great defenceman of the Montreal Canadiens.

Harvey drew 66 points out of a possible 90 in the voting for the Norris Trophy, which was put up seven seasons back for the best defenceman in the league. Bill Gadsby of New York is closest to Harvey, but he has only 20 points. Detroit's Marcel Pronovost has 19, Montreal's Tom Johnson has 18 and Toronto's Allan Stanley 15.

The 35-year-old Harvey has won the Norris Trophy four times. It was won by Red Kelly in 1954, Harvey won it the next four seasons but lost out last season to Johnson.

Howe, too, seems to have a big enough lead to make certain a record-shattering fifth Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player. He picked up 59 points, 28 more than runner-up Bobby Hull, the brilliant Chicago youngster.

Jean Beliveau, with 21; Bert Olmstead, with 18, and Bronco Horvath, with 13, were next in line in the balloting for the most coveted of all trophies.

COULD BEAT SHORE

Howe previously won the Hart Trophy in 1958, 1957, 1953 and 1952. Eddie Shore is the only other player to win most valuable designation in four different seasons.

Howe, of course, still has a chance to win the Ross Trophy for a sixth time. It goes to the scoring champion, and no one has yet approached Howe's five point titles.

McKenney, who has 13 goals and 31 assists and 12 minutes in penalties so far this season, has a 32-24 lead in the voting for the Lady Byng Trophy.

Henri Richard is his closest rival, but the Pocket Rocket may have lost his chance recently when he upped his penalty total to 38 minutes.

Andy Hebenton, 1958 winner, was third with 23 points. Then came Alex Delvecchio, current holder of the trophy, with 14 points. Johnny Wilson had 13 points and Stanley and Andy Bathgate 10 each.

Hay, a lanky centre who played last season for Calgary Stampeders after being picked up by the Hawks from the Montreal organization, had a 57-54 lead over Murray Oliver of Detroit, up from Edmonton Flyers, in the voting to name the season's standout rookie.

Hay, who has played all of Chicago's games, has 11 goals and 19 assists. Oliver, who didn't join Detroit until the season was 16 games old, has nine goals and 10 assists.

Stan Mikita of Chicago and Ken Schinkel of New York were next in the rokoie vote, with 23 and 22 points, respectively.

Hull, Horvath Tied For Scoring Lead

Young scoring star Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks earned five points last week to pull even with Boston's Bronco Horvath in the National Hockey League's torrid individual scoring race.

Hull had two goals and three assists to boost his season total to 55 points and overcome a two-point lead Horvath had held earlier last week. Horvath, the league's top goal-scorer, had a goal and two assists.

Hull has 26 goals and 29 assists, while Horvath's total consists of 28 goals and 27 assists.

Jean Beliveau of Montreal had five points last week and is only three points behind the leaders. Beliveau has 25 goals and 27 assists for 52 points and a four-point margin over Andy Bathgate of New York.

Bathgate managed only one goal last week, his 17th, and has 31 assists for 48 points. His assist total gives him a tie with Boston's Don McKenney for the lead in that department.

Whitby Clobbers Moscow Selects

TORONTO — Whitby Dunlops outchecked Moscow Selects from the opening whistle Tuesday night and handed the visiting Russian hockey team a 9-1 lacing before a sellout crowd of 14,182 at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Dunlops, winners of the world championship in 1958, were reinforced by members of the Olympic-bound Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. Butch Martin, borrowed from the Dutchmen, led Whitby scorers with three goals.

Other Whitby scorers were Sandy Air and George Samolenko with two each, Gordon Myles and Harry Sinden.

Viktor Tsyplakov scored Russia's only goal early in the final period after Whitby had taken to a 7-0 lead.

Biggest Moscow weakness was the lack of a power play. Russia had the odd-man advantage seven times but failed to score while Whitby scored three times in as many tries on the power play.

Whitby scored three goals in the second period on the power play, two on the same penalty.

It was the second defeat in as many games for Selects, beaten Sunday, 8-4, by the Dutchmen.

Coach Says Canadiens, Leafs Heroes to Russian Players

A Canadian hockey team, probably the finalists in the 1960 Allan Cup, will tour Russia next winter, it was announced yesterday in Toronto.

George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said the visit was part of an agreement under which Moscow Selects are now playing in 10 Canadian cities.

"I can't say for sure how we'll select the team at our annual meeting in the summer," Dudley said. "However, the last time this came up we sent the Allan Cup champions to the world championships and the finalists, to Russia. That seems like a logical system."

Meanwhile the touring Selects have informed Canadians of their great admiration for professional hockey teams in Canada.

Arcady Chernychev, coach of the Selects, said "we would be overwhelmed if such a team as your Toronto Maple Leafs would visit the U.S.S.R."

"Everybody would want to see these champions," he said. "But we have been told by your National Hockey League president (Clarence Campbell) that you are far too busy for such a trip."

Chernychev, who coached the Russian team to its 1956 Olympic win at Cortina, Italy, was obviously pleased when he was given a chance to visit the Leafs' dressing room.

Asked if there was any real interest in NHL hockey in Russia, Chernychev said, "Your (Montreal) Canadiens and Maple Leafs are heroes to our players."

It will be a 10-week course and Art Worth, former professional player, has agreed to act as moderator. Classes will be held in the North Ward School annex and an organizational meeting will be held next Wednesday starting at 7.30.

With all city baseball leagues from Little League up affiliated with the VABA, the school is designed to help improve coaching and all coaches and others interested are invited to attend.

Stock Prices Continue 1960 Slump

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market slipped to its lowest point in more than a month amid heavy trading.

Cockshutt topped industrial winners with a gain of 1½ at 23⅛.

Steel Company of Canada led losers with a drop of 1¾ at 82. Great Lakes Paper fell 1⅛ at 40, as did International Paper at 119. Consumers' Gas was off one point at 37.

Mines, with the exception of a few lower-priced issues, were relatively quiet. Aumaque, a gold penny stock, traded a total of 686,050 shares.

Western oils, after an early morning loss, jumped ahead slightly. Calgary and Edmonton led the way with a gain of ½ at 21.

Blue Chips Suffer

NEW YORK (CP) — Stock prices were knocked down to their worst one-day losses in two months.

Du Pont, down more than 10 at one time, took a net loss of 7¼. International Business Machines dropped 6. However, the three top steelmakers all had fractional gains.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal bond market continued its firm trend.

High-grade issues were firmer to perhaps 5 cents stronger while the longs were unchanged. Recent CNR issues were steady to 5 or 10 cents higher. Corporates were unchanged.

Bell Makes Gain

MONTREAL (CP)—Business ended with prices generally lower and volume down.

Aluminium slipped ¼ at 31½ and Noranda slid ¼ at 45¾ in base metals.

Utilities showed Bell up ⅛ at 43⅛ and Power up ½ at 55 but B.C. Power fell ¼ at 35⅞, Gatineau was off ⅞ at 35 and Jamaica eased ⅜ at 34⅛.

Imperial Oil was up ⅜ at 35⅛ in refining oils and Interprovincial rose ⅜ at 59⅜ in pipelines.

London Stocks Fall

LONDON (Reuters)—Stock prices were under renewed pressure. The fall in prices was more severe than Monday.

In the gilt-edged market long and undated stocks again eased but short-dated issues continued to improve.

Oils were depressed and golds were generally dull. Coppers eased but in diamonds De Beers deferred were firm on news of the sales agreement with Russia.

Grain Market

WINNIPEG (CP) — Featured in moderate activity was a pick-up in flax trade.

Buying was reported by overseas interests and export accounts on the light flax offerings. Trade reports indicated small sales to Japan and the United Kingdom. Prices showed a steady tone.

No reports of overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat were available.

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market slipped into general weakness.

Trade volume again was small in the absence of any new market influences. Pakistan bought about 1,750,000 bushels of hard wheat overnight and was in the market for additional amounts but that business had been long expected and appeared to have no effect in the pit.

Peace River Development

Power Price—.6 Cents

* * *

Could Be Double Rate Of Columbia Current

* * *

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Peace River Power Development Company is prepared to sell electric power at the U.S. boundary at about .6 cents per kilowatt hour if it could get an export permit.

This figure was given by W. C. Mainwaring, president of the company, during an interview in Victoria this week, and to power experts it indicated that it would be around this six-mills mark that Peace River will offer to supply power to southern B.C. for 1968 delivery.

COMPETITIVE BASIS

Hitherto, the Peace River company has done no more than affirm that it would lay down power on a competitive basis, and power people may agree that six mills is indeed quite a competitive figure.

It compares, for instance, with the .63 mill rate which will be the cost of the new B.C. Electric thermal plant generation on Burrard Inlet.

But it could be almost double the rate at which electrical power from the Columbia River—thanks to downstream benefits—might be available to the B.C. utility companies.

END MARCH

As things are now shaping, Peace River Company will know by the end of March whether the first leg of its application for a water licence has been successful.

If it is, then Peace River will want an early answer from B.C. Electric and B.C. Hydro—its two largest potential customers—whether they are willing to buy their power on a long-term contract.

The answer from the two utilities will not be an easy one to give, unless by that time there is a firm undertaking that cheaper hydro will be available from the Columbia River when it is needed.

LARGE BLOCK

Put yourself in the position of the two B.C. utilities. They know that by late 1960s they will require a large block of extra power. The decision as to where they will get it must be made at least five years before it is needed.

If Peace River offers a firm delivery of 1,000,000 horsepower at, say, six mills, would they be entitled, as servants of the public, to decline it in the hope that Columbia power might be available to them at three mills?

Whatever decision they make, the utilities might be proved wrong, for it does not seem likely that any firm commitment on Columbia River power is to be expected within the present time limit the B.C. government has set for the Peace River company.

One way in which the problem might be solved for the B.C. utilities and for the B.C. consumers, would be a decision of the government to hold up its approval of the Peace River project until further information is available on the Columbia.

A delay of up to two years could be absorbed without altering the 1968 delivery date of Peace River power.

Mr. Mainwaring says Peace major work of installing the first 1,000,000 horsepower of electricity could be tackled in six years, and that indeed very little will be done in actual construction work until late 1962.

In view of the utmost importance of the cheapest possible power to the B.C. economy, it is, at least, to be hoped that irrevocable decisions will not be made until they are absolutely necessary on a time-fulfillment basis.

Awards of Merit

Merit awards and scrolls for long service in association executive posts were presented last night to Jack Wilson, front, president, and Henry Watson, past president of the Victoria branch of the National Office Management Association, by James Anderson.—(Colonist Photo.)

GAS SURFEIT SEEN

George A. Wilkinson, former president of the Pipeline Contractors Association of Canada said in Victoria last week, that there is a grave danger that Canada may miss its market for natural gas in the United States.

Mr. Wilkinson said that recent exploration had shown that huge reserves of natural gas were being proved up under the seas along the U.S. coast.

"It may not be long before the United States will have all the natural gas it needs, and if our export permits are held up indefinitely, we may lose our chance of disposing of gas to the middle west states," said Mr. Wilkinson.

NEW TAR SAND BID

Another large research project on the Athabaska tar sands is being launched by four major oil companies with Cities Service Athabaska as operators.

Taking part each with 30 per cent interest are Cities Service (parent company of the operators), Imperial Oil and Richfield Oil Corp., with Royalite holding a 10 per cent interest.

Individual research activities have been carried on by the four companies for several years, and the companies now believe that the extraction of the 40,000,000,000 barrels of oil from the sands can be solved by new techniques.

Garden Notes

Lift, Divide, Replant

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Given a spell of dry weather, one job which can be tackled in the next few weeks is to lift, divide and replant at least a portion of the rhubarb clumps. A lot of the rhubarb hereabouts is treated like a family heirloom, left to its own devices in a neglected corner of the garden, and can't possibly produce as it should without a little friendly assistance.

If your rhubarb plants have shown signs of throwing up a flowering shoot early in the season, this is a sure sign that the soil is exhausted.

Such clumps should be eased out of the ground with a digging fork, divided and replanted on new enriched ground. You will need a sharpened spade to cut through the tough, woody root stock, but watch where you make the cuts or you may slice through one of the "eyes" or growth buds.

Old roots—four or five years old—will usually provide about three strong pieces from the outside of the clump for replanting. Discard the middle bit, as it is hard and woody and worn out anyway, then replant the vigorous young outside pieces on manured ground at 3½ feet spacing each way. As you mustn't cut any stalks from the newly planted pieces for the first year, it might be wise to leave a few of the old clumps unmoved, to keep the kitchen supplied while the new plants are getting established.

Those home gardeners who are fortunate enough as to own a heated greenhouse are just about to get started on their busiest season of the year, and those who are perpetually short of space should try their hand at fitting a few shelves to provide a bit of extra room. I use the word "try" advisedly, for there are a lot of ifs, ands and buts involved in this job.

In the first place, a shelf should never be placed where it is likely to cut off too much light from the plants below. We don't have too much light available at this season of the year and we can't afford to waste any of it. Seedlings raised in insufficient light become "drawn" and skinny as they reach up for what little light there is and never make sturdy, vigorous plants.

Temperature control poses certain problems in the greenhouse at this season of the year. You need quite a lot of warmth, preferably from the bottom, to get seeds to germinate, but it would be very expensive to heat up the whole greenhouse to this temperature. Besides, so much warmth wouldn't be good for the other plants.

The trick here is to make a little greenhouse within the greenhouse—a propagating case, in fact—in which the temperature can be kept higher for the starting of seeds. Use glass if you have it available, binding the corners together with electrician's tape, or it is easy to make up a light wooden framework and cover it with plastic film. The extra warmth can come from a proper soil heating cable or even from a couple of small, low-wattage light bulbs under the propagating case.

Remember to shift the seedlings as soon as they appear from the propagating case into the cool of the outer greenhouse. The warmth is needed only to germinate the seeds; thereafter, the seedlings must be grown cool for sturdy, stocky plants.

TV in Review — By Fred Danzig

They Dared to Be Different

Today I'd like to tell you the happy story about TV's best program.

The series, "The Play of the Week," consists of taped two-hour productions of literate, adult plays, starring distinguished performers (working for scale; top pay is $600). Each play—the list inciudes "Medea," "Waltz of the Toreadors," "The Power and the Glory," and "The White Steed"—is seen seven times a week on New York's station WNTA-TV.

★ ★ ★

It all began last fall when the station owner, National Telefilm Associates, realized it could not compete for mass audiences by copying network programming patterns. It was decided, instead, to go after that portion of the adult audience that has become disenchanted with standard night network fare. The series, supervised by David Susskind, producers Henry Weinstein and Lewis Freedman, has gone on to earn the highest praise from viewers and critics. Unfortunately, it also has gone on to lose much money for NTA, for sponsors, by nature, tended to shy away from numerically small TV audiences.

Then came a series of exciting developments.

When it appeared that "The Play" was about to be dropped, TV critic Jack Gould, of the New York Times, urged viewers to send postcards to NTA in support of the series. Nearly 30,000 cards were received, nearly all from adults promising to support sponsors of the series.

Now, sponsors, by nature, also tend to perk up when confronted by 30,000 such letters and cards. It remained for Standard Oil of New Jersey to buy this rich, untapped oil field. Starting Feb. 8, Standard Oil will sponsor "The Play" for 13 weeks.

The new sponsor also volunteered the remarkable news that he would not tell the producers how to put on a TV show. (The producers, of course, won't tell the sponsor how to dig for oil).

★ ★ ★

Suddenly, "The Play" became an attractive TV buy. I'm told a line is forming for spot commercials between now and Feb. 8. Can it be that the small TV audience finally is becoming a factor in commercial TV? Will such small audiences form a bedrock foundation for station and sponsors who dare to be different?

If this is the case in one area, there's really no reason why it can't be done in other areas, too. If "The Play" can achieve national circulation through syndication, our TV viewing habits may be in for significant changes. Certainly, we all would share in some mighty TV experiences.

Hollywood Today — By Sheilah Graham

On the Shocking Side

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Jason Robards Jr., will be asked to star in producer Lester Cowan's original script by F. Scott Fitzgerald of his "Babylon Revisited" story. And he wants Kim Stanley for the embittered sister-in-law.

Cowan held on to the original script for which he paid Fitzgerald a few thousand dollars—three for the story, three for the script—when he sold the story to Paramount for $40,000. Scott's prestige was low at the time, so Paramount brought in other writers before they sold the story to Metro for $100,000. MGM revamped the whole thing for Elizabeth Taylor and Van Johnson and called it "The Last Time I Saw Paris." It was pretty bad.

Cowan held on to his copy of "Babylon Revisited" with every word written by Fitzgerald. He could sell it today for maybe $250,000.

★ ★ ★

Hollywood movies for 1960 are a bit on the startling side, to put it mildly. You will see a disgusting affair between a middle-aged man and a girl of 12 in "Lolita," a house of ill fame in "The World of Suzie Wong." And I haven't read "Return to Peyton Place," and don't intend to, but I'm told it's more shocking than the first Grace Metalious novel. And I'm wondering how far they will go with "Sons and Lovers." Also with "Sweet Bird of Youth" off the Broadway stage, which will soon be a movie. What they can do with that one I just can't imagine.

★ ★ ★

I'd like to see more of Hugh Griffith, the English actor who is so good as Sheik Ilderim in "Ben-Hur." What a fascinating face he has!

★ ★ ★

Jimmy Durante's share of the $1,000,000 paid for movie rights to his life story, "Hinka Dinka Doo," is a nice quarter of a million. The movie, with Frank Capra directing Dean Martin, Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra, goes into production in August.

★ ★ ★

Yvonne De Carlo, back in Hollywood for television appearances, told me: "I've learned about night clubs the hard way. It cost me $25,000. I had seven people in my little revue and it was too much overhead for me to carry. All I've got to show for seven engagements is a wardrobe full of beautiful clothes."

★ ★ ★

Dorothy Parker once wrote that men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses. That may have been true in her heyday, but not now in Hollywood. Marilyn Monroe has to wear spectacles to see things in focus. Esther Williams is a contact-lens girl, but it took her a long time to get used to them. I'm told that Brigitte Bardot is nearsighted, though no one has caught her wearing cheaters. But eyeglasses are so attractive today that it doesn't really matter.

★ ★ ★

Tony Bartley will follow Deborah Kerr into matrimony when their divorce is final. The girl he will wed is reportedly blonde model Bridget Holt. Deborah has already announced she will become Mrs. Peter Viertel in the summer.

★ ★ ★

Noel Coward is again getting to be a movie star of top rank, in his old age. He stole a great deal of "Our Man in Havana" from Alec Guinness, which isn't easy. And look for him to steal "Surprise Package" from Yul Brynner and Mitzi Gaynor. He does a cha-cha-cha with Mitzi that almost lifts the feathers from her tight evening gown.

Formosa Notebook — By Peter Worthington

Even Troops Consider Them Crazy

(This is another in a series on the embattled Chinese Nationalist outpost of Formosa.)

★ ★ ★

Once 1,500 Lived There Now Quemoy Ghost Town

★ ★ ★

NANSHAN, Quemoy Island (TNS)—The old man with the toothless smile and the missing ear was slightly out of his mind. And he knew it.

"But I shall never leave my village," he said, touching the spot where his ear had been. "Even if the Communists come they will have to kill me to get me out of my home."

The old fisherman lost his ear to a shell fragment during the 1958 bombardment of this Nationalist Chinese offshore island. His words exemplify the spirit found on Quemoy and Formosa today.

★ ★ ★

Quemoy is probably more fanatically anti-Communist than Red China is anti Chiang Kai-Shek. The troops here know if an enemy invasion is ever successful life for them ends abruptly. For 11 years it has been this way.

The 1958 bombardment turned this fishing village on the northwest coast of Quemoy into a near ghost town.

Barely a year ago 1,500 people lived here. Now less than 50 do. And the 50 are considered a bit crazy—even by the soldiers.

In 45 days nearly 500,000 enemy shells rained down.

Quemoy is a 12-by-five mile island fortress defended by up to 100,000 soldiers. An additional 60,000 defend Matsu.

★ ★ ★

Nowadays enemy bombardments are spasmodic and don't do much harm—physically or psychologically.

The Nationalists keep a record of the number of shells that land. When there is a substantial number they retaliate with the exact number that have landed.

The Chinese boast there are two Quemoys — one above ground, the other underground. Whole mountains seem to have been hollowed out to house the infantry. Artillery guns have been tunnelled through hills, and elaborate observation posts keep a 24-hour watch on the mainland.

Visiting Quemoy is a cloak-and-dagger adventure.

During a 90-minute, predawn flight from Taipei on Formosa, the plane skims a few feet above the wind-lashed waters of the Formosan straights. An airman keeps look-out from the plane's observation bubble.

When you land at Quemoy you step into scenery and an atmosphere that is a throwback to Korea.

Trees are scarce and shell-torn—a whole forest was reduced to matchsticks in one of the bombardments—and deep communication trenches cut jagged lines across cultivated fields.

Since 1949 more than 4,000 Nationalist soldiers have been killed here. They are still here, in one massive cemetery.

Troops pass the time by improving the fortification and practicing their roles if an emergency occurs.

★ ★ ★

Officers do tactical exercises on large-scale relief maps.

Foreign military people have estimated it would cost the Chinese Communists 500,000 men to take Quemoy.

"Someday there will be an attack on Quemoy," predicted Lt. Gen. Teng Ting Yuan, deputy commander of the island.

"I hope I am still here when it comes," he added. And he grinned handsomely and slapped his thigh in delighted anticipation.

His seems a common attitude on this cheerful but warlike island.

Sweet Music Plays—as Tourists Drift on Gorge

Tourists were pictured yesterday drifting up and down the Gorge to music, admiring the illuminated, landscaped scenery.

The man who painted the picture was R. A. Mackie, general manager of Canadian Pacific hotels, and he told the Kiwanis Club he thought it would be a "tremendous" tourist attraction.

Imaginative ideas like this might at times seem to be "gimmicks," he said, but they have great appeal to tourists: these were the things that tourists photographed and talked about, as they photographed and talked about the Butchart Gardens, imaginatively transformed from a cement quarry into a great attraction.

Canadians must be resourceful and imaginative, he said, if they want to expand the tourist business, "unquestionably one of our major industries which benefits every phase of our economy."

In the fact of increased competition for tourist trade and increased ability to go to faraway places by jet aircraft, Mr. Mackie called for continued efforts to make Canada more attractive to tourists.

"First-class service is a must," he said. "In addition, and particularly to appeal to the American tourists, more attractive and interesting activities must be arranged. Scenery alone is not enough."

Visitors, he suggested, are "quite happy to visit, photograph and sight-see in the daytime," but want entertainment in the evenings, and if they can't find it, "we can't get them back again."

Break-Ins, Theft

Church Raid Charges Face Juvenile Trio

Three juveniles face at least nine charges in juvenile court here after two days of investigation by city Juvenile Officers Lyle Somers and Norman Galbraith.

Seven of the charges involve break-ins, including a raid on First Church of Christ Scientist in which the building was desecrated by vandalism and stamps worth $25 and a flashlight were stolen.

Other break-ins charged to various members of the trio include those at Victoria High School, North Ward School, the Pepsi-Cola plant at 2954 Bridge, and private homes on Vancouver and Green Streets.

In addition, they face charges of theft of two cars, a set of licence plates, and possession of stolen goods.

The three were arrested by Duncan RCMP Sunday after they rolled and wrecked one of the cars reported stolen just outside that city on the old Island Highway.

Victoria juvenile officers brought the three to Victoria Monday, and their subsequent investigation resulted in the charges facing the boys.

Thousands of Dogs Liable to 'Arrest'

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Licences Fell Due Jan. 2

★ ★ ★

Thousands of dogs in Victoria, Esquimalt and Oak Bay are operating without licences.

However, their owners can probably get away with it until March, providing that the dogs stay home, or at heel.

$1 DISCOUNT

Confused dog owners took note of the fact that the city offered a $1 discount on dog-licence fees if they were paid before March. They assumed that even though licences fell due on the first of the year, they were allowed two months' grace.

Philip Wilkinson, secretary-manager of Victoria branch, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said last night that many dog-owners were mistaken about this.

LAW STILL STANDS

Even though the city paid dog owners $1 to observe the law (as an inducement to prompt payment) the law still stood: licences fall due each Jan. 2.

In practice, he added, the SPCA won't enforce the licence rigidly until March—unless a dog is "arrested" for running at large. Owners of impounded dogs will have to pay the licence at once.

Some time after the beginning of March, SPCA employees will begin knocking on doors and demanding licence fees.

COME TO LIGHT

These facts came to light after Mrs. William McCord, one of the many dog owners who believed they had until March to pay, got in a dispute with an SPCA inspector.

The dog had stopped to sniff a bench, according to his usual custom when out for a walk. The woman who owned the dog kept on walking, until she was 30 feet ahead, out of sight around a balustrade.

She turned to call him. He didn't come. An SPCA truck was parked at the curb, and inspector Clifford Ladd was trying to pull the dog in.

CURRENT LICENCE

"He doesn't have a current licence," the inspector said.

"I have until March to pay," the owner answered.

"No you haven't," said the inspector. "And the dog was running at large."

"He was with me," the owner contended. The argument might have taken an unpleasant turn, but someone came up to the inspector to lay a complaint about some other dog. Meanwhile, woman and dog walked away.

20 CALLS DAY

"I get 10 to 20 calls a day about dogs running loose, from motorists, gardeners and school teachers, about dogs following children to school," said Inspector Ladd.

"The pressure is on us, so we're clamping down."

Secretary-manager Philip Wilkinson said: "We get 17,000 calls a year, chiefly complaints. This year we felt we weren't fulfilling our responsibilities under our contract to the city, Esquimalt and Oak Bay satisfactorily, so we put on another man."

"We have two inspectors on all day now."

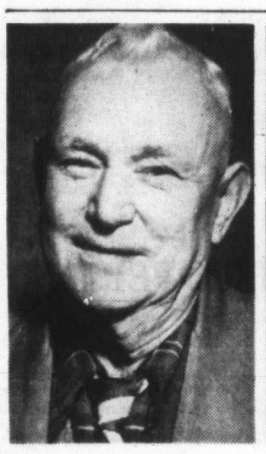
The SPCA took over licencing and poundkeeping in the city and two municipalities, in 1957.

Rescued from Poundkeeper

Holding her West Highland White, "Winkie," after rescuing him from the clutches of a poundkeeper for lack of a 1960 licence, Mrs. W. V. McCord sticks staunchly to her contention that a new licence isn't necessary until March 1. — (Colonist photo.)

Artificial Organ Like Washing Machine

Life Hangs on 'Kidney'



JOHN MILLING
. . . ideal place

R. H. FRENCH
. . . no funds

OWEN KARN
. . . I doubt it

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Single Failure Can Be Fatal

A 40-year-old Victoria man is alive today in Royal Jubilee Hospital because of a $1,500 artificial kidney which looks and acts like a washing machine and which has been used twice in the past two years.

It is the only one on Vancouver Island and possibly one of only three in British Columbia.

TEAM OF NINE

And each time it is trundled out of storage a team of no less than nine people brace themselves for an hours-long vigil when a single mechanical or human failure can cost a life.

Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical administrator at Royal Jubilee, said yesterday that in its most recent application here the artificial kidney was in operation for some 12 hours and that most of the team stayed with it for the full period.

IN DANGER

The team, which consists of laboratory technicians, nurses, medical specialists, a surgeon, a biochemist and a heart specialist, is called into action when a patient's kidneys have failed for up to four days and his life is in danger from the degree of toxins or waste products left in the bloodstream.

Kidney failure is usually brought about by an overdose of drugs, severe drug reaction, a serious infection or a severe transfusion reaction.

If the kidneys fail to resume operation after three or four days the artificial kidney is readied for use — a two-hour operation in itself.

SPECIAL CHEMICAL

Essentially it consists of a pump similar to a heart pump, a tank filled with a special chemical solution and a tube which runs from an artery of the patient through the tank and back to a vein.

The tube is semi-permeable, which means that it passes the toxins out of the bloodstream and into the solution in the "kidney" without passing any of the blood along with it, a process known as dialyses.

The latest artificial kidney patient, whom hospital officials declined to identify, is today in "improved" condition.

Where Is It Better?

'Droves of Pensioners' Won't Desert Victoria

Old-age pensioners may be planning to leave the rest of British Columbia in droves but they aren't going to desert Victoria.

That was the opinion of spokesmen for more than 1,000 city pensioners last night when they were asked to predict the outcome of proposed legislation to make pensions payable outside Canada. (See also Page 1.)

A Vancouver official of the 9,000-member B.C. Old-Age Pensioners Organization predicted earlier that as many as 22,000 of B.C.'s 110,000 pensioners might leave the country if Ottawa enacts the "pay-anywhere" plan.

"Victoria is the most ideal place in the world—why would they want to leave here?" asked John Milling, president of the 200-member Victoria Old-Age Pensioners Organization No. 5.

"What's the use of going back to England—very few of us have any friends left there.

"I think most pensioners would want to spend their remaining days right here.

"Fewer pensioners will leave Victoria than other cities in B.C."

Peter Davey, secretary of the No. 3 unit, which boasts some 400 members, agreed, saying, "I like it here just fine—it's not too hot and not too cold.

"I think maybe it's an expensive place to live but I say that fewer will leave here than the rest of the province." He said that of those who are drawn away from Victoria the cost of living will be the major factor in sending them off seeking greener pastures.

He thought a few might move to Florida where he found that living costs are slightly below those in B.C.

R. H. French, president of the No. 1 unit with close to 500 members, thought the Vancouver figures were too high.

"I've heard several say they would like to spend their last days in the Old Country — I know I'd like to but I haven't got the funds to get there.

"But I don't think anything like 20 per cent would leave Victoria, although that may be right for the rest of the province."

Owen Karn, president of the Silver Threads Service, a co-ordinating organization, said of the proposed new legislation "I would very much doubt if it would cause many to take off from here."

And of those who did leave, he added, most would come back if they could afford the fare.

"If they go back to the Old Country they will find it just isn't like it used to be and within a year they would be back.

"Leaving here would be a pretty expensive proposition to start with."

But the new legislation might make serious inroads onto Victoria's reputation as a Mecca for Canadian retirement.

Royal Oak Cemetery

Mother Collapses, Dies At Graveside of Son

An elderly Vancouver woman, attending the funeral of her son at Royal Oak Cemetery yesterday, collapsed and died at his graveside.

Mrs. Ethel A. Sabiston, 81, had come to Victoria for the funeral of Claude C. J. Sabiston, 58, of 974 Caledonia, who died Friday at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Just before his casket was lowered into the grave, Mrs. Sabiston collapsed into the arms of another son, Albert, of 3903 Saanich Road.

Saanich police emergency car rushed her to St. Joseph's Hospital, but she was dead on arrival.

Council Battle Shaping Up On Thetis Lake Park Issue

A city council battle is shaping up over a proposed B.C. Electric powerline easement across Thetis Lake property.

Parks committee Monday opposed selling or leasing parkland for any commercial purpose. Waterworks committee yesterday voted to recommend granting the easement—about 26 acres—for $200 an acre and the value of the timber taken off it.

And Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow indicated he resented parks committee making its recommendation: "It comes under the water commissioner. Why they should tell the waterworks committee what to do I don't know."

The cleared easement on the east side of the property, he said, "will be a safeguard for the park, because it will be like a fireguard along the side of the park."

He also held that it wouldn't be seen from most parts of the property, and "won't affect the birds and bees and wild life."

On the contrary, he said, it would provide an access trail so people could enjoy the area more and would add $5,000 to funds for a new pavilion in the park proper.

Ald. Austin Curtis said that as far as he could learn, most of the persons complaining about the proposal were not taxpayers in the city.

"When we discuss amalgamation with these people, they're not interested," he said. "When we want to do something, they're very vocal in their protests, telling us how to run our business. How else can we get a little money to spend on the park? If we go to the other municipalities, they say, 'No, it's your park'."

Swartz Bay Ferry Wharf To Be Begun in February

First spadeful of earth for the new British Columbia government ferry wharf at Swartz Bay will probably be turned in February.

Tenders for work on the wharf itself will be called when Swan & Wooster, Vancouver consulting engineers, finish driving test piles and bring in their report.

Warehouse Emptier Now, Egyptian Mummies Gone

A Victoria warehouse superintendent for Woodward Stores Ltd. will breathe easier later today—for the first time in years he will be able to go about his work without sharing the premises with a pair of Egyptian mummies.

The mummies, believed by some to be the preserved cadavers of Ptolemy II of Egypt and Antiochus III of Syria, have been sold by Woodward's to Herbert Emerson Wilson, best known as "king of the safecrackers."

Announcing the sale for an undisclosed price yesterday, J. Courtney Haddock, Woodward's director in Victoria, said the mummies will go on display at Wilson's Arcade of Mysteries in Vancouver. Mr. Haddock bought the mummies in England from the son of a British mystic, Sir Ralph de Tunstall Sheyd, who had acquired them in Egypt. For some years they were part of a Lions Club display at the Pacific National Exhibition.

If authentic, they are both more than 2,000 years old.

Guides Celebrate Golden Jubilee

Girl Guides and Brownies with their cooks' badge will be in great demand this week to bake birthday cakes for the 50th anniversary of guiding in Canada.

A national golden jubilee party will be held in Toronto, Jan. 20 and a huge birthday cake will be cut by Mrs. Rankine Nesbitt, Canada's chief commissioner.

Smaller replicas of the cake will be given to each commissioner to take home for provincial birthday parties, and the same recipe has been distributed to the 6,500 packs and companies across Canada so that each may have its own birthday cake.

Mrs. T. A. Quayle, Public Relations Commissioner in Victoria gave the recipe to The Daily Colonist yesterday and said that local parties will be arranged after the official celebrations.

The cake is approximately 3¼ pounds. Half-cup shortening and butter combined, 1 cup brown sugar packed tight, 3 egg yolks, ¼-cup molasses, 3 egg whites, 2 cups all-purpose flour, 1 tsp. allspice, 1 tsp. cinnamon, ¼ tsp. nutmeg, ½ tsp. mace, ½ tsp. ground cloves, ¾-cup currants, 1 cup citron peel, 2 cups raisins, ½-cup chopped orange peel, ½-cup candied cherries, ½-cup pineapple, ¼-cup grape juice or orange juice, 1-16 tsp. baking soda (pinch), 1 tsp. hot water.

Method: Cream together shortening, butter and brown sugar. Add 3 egg yolks beaten lightly with molasses. Fold into mixture 3 egg whites beaten stiff. Sift together 1½ cups all-purpose flour and spices. Add to mixture. Dust fruit with remaining ½ cup of flour and stir into mixture. Add grape or orange juice. Dissolve soda in hot water and add. Bake in loaf tin 10"x5"x 3¼"—2½ hours at 300 degrees F.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: My mom died a month ago after a long illness. My step-father hates me and always did. My only other relatives are an aunt and uncle who have no interest in me.

I'm 17 and have another year of high school. My step-father thinks education for girls is a waste of time. He wants me to quit school and get a job.

I have a lovely friend who is an only child. Her parents like me and have offered me a home with them. My step-father would probably be happy to see me go. Do you think people will look down on me if I go live with these folks?—I. D. A.

★ ★ ★

Dear I. D. A.: If you can get permission from your step-father to make your home with these generous people I see no reason not to do so. It would be a good idea particularly since it would enable you to finish at least high school. Good luck.

Mom's Biggest Mistake

Dear Ann: I'm 19, considered very attractive and am now employed as a telephone operator.

I've been dating a student who works part-time to put himself through school. He's having a tough time financially and must help his widowed mother.

A man who owns a busy cocktail lounge has told my mother I'm just the girl he's been looking for. He's at least 40, has lots of money, a big car and smokes cigars. I went out with him twice to please Mom and my skin crawled when he put his arm around the back of my chair.

Yesterday Mom gave me the devil. She said I was a dummy and one day I'd be sorry. She married my dad for love and claims it was the biggest mistake of her life. According to her if I had any brains I'd marry any man who could give me something and not bother with a "struggling punk."

I told her I'd feel as if I were selling myself if I married the older man. Mom is nobody's fool about most things but I think she's wrong. Will you back me up?—NEEDING YOUR HELP.

★ ★ ★

Dear Needing: I'm happy to see there's SOME judgment in your family—even though it's unevenly distributed. You have it all.

Don't let anyone push you into a loveless marriage with a guy old enough to be your father.

If you couldn't stand this man's arm across your chair, imagine looking at him across the breakfast table for the next 40 years.

Your disillusioned mom thinks she's giving you good advice—but she is grievously mistaken.

Dear Ann: I've been a very close friend of Mrs. X for 15 years. Six months ago she told me about the trouble she was having with a woman I'll call Joan. I won't go into detail but from her reports Joan seemed like such a terrible person I decided to have nothing more to do with her.

Joan noticed my sudden coolness and asked why. I told her straight to her face. Last week Mrs. X and Joan patched up their differences and are as thick as thieves. I feel as if I've been made a fool. When I asked Mrs. X. how she could be friendly with Joan after all she knew, she said "I learned some of the things weren't true." What should I do now? — MRS. X-CLOODED.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. X-Clooded: Let this be a lesson. Never again judge a person through the eyes (or mouth) of a third party. Base your evaluation on your own experience. Apologize to Joan and maybe time will do the rest.

Tips for Parents

Children's Programs Should Be Controlled

By HELEN R. HEWSON

A home and school association has conducted a survey of its members to learn whether or not they have TV problems. Seventy-five per cent of those who replied said "No."

Many of the 25 per cent who said "Yes" used tricks and master control switches to separate their children from the screen. This was perhaps indicative of the parents uncertain control in other areas as well as TV watching.

★ ★ ★

Sixty per cent of the parents permit evening viewing on school nights, after homework and chores are finished and up to bedtime. Many parents selected the programs seen.

Others noted that when viewing time is limited the children choose their programs with care.

These families have succeeded in setting reasonable limits to viewing time, but they are not satisfied with the quality of many of the programs available.

What can be done about it?

Many of the programs seen by Canadian children originate in the United States. John Crosby, TV and radio critic, declares "Television is a crime against the nation's children. It could be a tremendous instrument of enlightenment and education.

"But instead, so far as children are concerned, television is an almost unqualified evil."

The National Parent Teacher Magazine applauds Crosby's call for a crusade. "We are intelligent, humane people but you would never guess it from watching TV.

"We intend to raise a rumpus about programs that take children on a voyage of violence and give them an hour of horror."

★ ★ ★

Every parent can help to improve the calibre of television programs. How?

First, write the television station and the network commending or condemning certain items. There are several good children's programs. Let your approval be known.

Work through your arganizations to develop an informed public opinion. Parent power based on solid facts and sound opinion is mightier than you think.

Herbed Biscuits Accompany Fish

By LOUISE MOORE

I wonder what you would enjoy for a frosty night.

Something with zest and a lively sauce and I think I have it—a savory salmon ring with herbed biscuit rings—tastes good—looks pretty and is good for you too.

SAVORY SALMON WITH HERBED BISCUIT RINGS

Drain and flake a 1-pound can of pink salmon—use the red if you prefer it. Reserve the liquid. Melt two tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan and stir in two tablespoons flour. Stir until smooth and then blend in 1¾ cup milk and reserved salmon liquid. Cook, stirring over low heat until smooth and thickened.

Season to taste with salt and pepper and then blend in the flaked salmon, two tablespoons minced parsley, one tablespoon lemon juice and one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Pour into a buttered six or eight-cup baking dish. Top with Herbed Biscuit Rings and bake in hot oven (425) until biscuits are done —about 15 to 20 minutes.

HERBED BISCUIT RINGS

Prepare your favorite recipe for baking powder biscuit dough and add ½ teaspoon herbs to the dry ingredients (sage, thyme, and savory combined). You may use the prepared biscuit mix if you wish. Roll out and cut into rings with doughnut cutter.

With this dish I would like a citrus fruit cup, quick-frozen green peas, a tossed salad with tomato wedges, and for dessert a lush lemon snow pudding.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in, 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.
The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.
"FOREST" siding represents an economy to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

Winning Contract

Ordinarily at the conclusion of a big tournament like the Fall Nationals, played last month at Coronado, California, the most discussed hand will be one involving a grand slam, or a huge swing, or a freak distribution. At Coronado, however, no hand got more attention than the Yarborough held by South in the layout shown today. "Talk about bidding on nothing," was the general tenor of remarks, "look at the poverty-stricken hand on which South had to take action!"

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2♣	Pass	2♢	2♠
Pass	Pass	?

The deal was played in the Life Masters' Individual. North was Sylvia Stein, Detroit, trying to repeat her last year's victory. (She didn't make it.) South was Dorothy Heyden, Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y., who a couple of days later was to win the Mixed Pair championship, partnered with John R. Crawford. They were playing weak two bids, with the opening bid of two clubs an artificial bid to show a strong hand. (The fact that North happened to hold a club suit was purely coincidental.) South's two diamond bid was the weakness response—and seldom has a hand more completely met that requirement.

But not only did she have to keep the bidding open once; she had to find another bid when, after West's two-spade overcall, North showed complete faith in her partner by making a forcing pass. The opening two-club bid was forcing to at least two no-trump; hence, South simply had to find another bid. Mrs. Heyden found the best one possible.

She reasoned that her partner could not see game in her own hand and did not have an overwhelming suit as part of her strong opening. In that event, the best North-South could do was hope to set the opponents at two spades. So South doubled!

That proved to be the top score on the hand. North cashed three heart tricks, two diamonds and two clubs, setting the two spade bid 300 points. The North-South hands could not produce more than three clubs if played at their maximum contract, so the 300 point penalty was their best possible result.

Charter—High Seas Fishing

The Fisheries Research Board of Canada will require two vessels for salmon fishing on the high seas during the period May-August of this year.

One vessel will fish with gill nets (supplied by the Board), in order to study the ocean distribution of salmon. The second vessel will carry out purse seining, in order to obtain live salmon for tagging.

Both vessels will need to be equipped for accurate navigation on the high seas, and in addition to the crew have accommodation for two to three scientific observers.

The Board will also require for rent a Salmon Seine, which will be modified for the indicated purpose. It is possible that a combined bid for vessel and seine will be acceptable.

The Board is anxious to make the best possible selection of vessels and crews for these operations, and invites all interested parties to contact.

Retired Bachelor's Will

Affectionate, Chained Heiress Wins $80-a-Month Inheritance

DETROIT (UPI) — A coy, young heiress came into court Tuesday to claim her inheritance.

The heiress is a mostly-brown mutt named Nosey who was left $80 a month for life by her master, Charles Long.

For her appearance before probate Judge Ernest C. Boehm, Nosey wore a silver chain and a wide black collar which nicely matched the black of Boehm's robes.

The four-year-old heiress came into court flanked by attorneys, her guardian, and witnesses to Long's will.

In court, Elvin Wall was called as the first witness. He took Nosey with him. The dog coyly turned her back to the spectators and sat quietly while Wall told the judge that he was a longtime friend of Long, that both were retired bachelors and that he would be "very happy to care for Nosey for the rest of her life."

Boehm agreed that Nosey "seems to have a great deal of affection" for Wall. He admitted the will to probate and appointed Wall as her guardian.

Dikes Rising in War On Relentless Lava

KAPOHO, Hawaii (UPI) — Workmen began building two giant dikes Tuesday in a grim race to keep a river of molten lava from destroying Kapoho.

Giant bulldozers went to work in the eerie glow of volcano Kileavea's lava fountains shortly after Gov. William Quinn declared the district a "major disaster area" and cabled President Eisenhower for federal emergency funds.

RESORT LOST

The dike-building project was under the supervision of Dr. Gordon Macdonald, who directed a valiant but futile effort to save nearby Warm Springs Resort Monday.

Macdonald said he would build one earth barrier 1,500 feet long and a second barrier 1,000 feet long. They will be 20 feet high and 50 feet wide.

The dikes will be used to divert a giant river of lava which threatens this village, beach houses at Puna and other populated areas.

STRICKEN AREA

Quinn made his plea to President Eisenhower Monday night after a two-hour inspection tour of the stricken area. He said the lava flow, which is 30 feet deep in some sections, has covered 180 acres of farm land.

The volcano Monday burst through 2,000-foot-long earth dikes hastily constructed to protect the scenic area, site of many south sea movies, and molten rock ignited trees and picnic tables near the cluster of warm pools.

Fountains at the source of the eruption spouted more than 2,000 feet high.

Extra Tax Report Likely on Homes

City officials have been asked to look into the possibility of obliging contractors to give house-buyers the full facts about local improvement as well as normal taxes.

Court of revision on local improvements asked for the study after hearing several complaints from house-owners that they hadn't been told about outstanding local improvement charges when they bought their properties.

This information is always available at city hall to prospective buyers, assistant city solicitor Angus Smith noted yesterday.

Heated argument between Couns. Stanley Murphy and Leslie Passmore broke out during a Saanich council meeting this week over application for rezoning the southeast corner of Shelbourne and Pear for service station use.

Coun. Passmore favored the move despite recommendation of Saanich planners that it be rejected. Coun. Murphy, zoning chairman, opposed it because he considered it ribbon development.

The latter also stated that company planners work for the good of their company, while Saanich planners work for the good of the municipality.

Secrecy Oath Taken By New Civil Servants

Forty new B.C. Government workers, 22 in Victoria, took their oath of office in courthouse ceremonies throughout the province this week.

In Victoria, court registrar B. J. B. Morahan officiated. Monocled and employing a crisp British accent and a manner acquired in the British colonial service in the Far East, he made the occasion one to be remembered.

"The oath of office is binding assurance you will perform your duties faithfully, honestly and with discretion. . . No greater responsibility could you assume . . . the welfare of the people of British Columbia is in your hands," he stated.

He reminded the new employees, clerks, draughtsmen, a nurse and a lab technician among them—that any careless remark concerning their work could have serious political results.

He said if they write for publication anything in connection with their work, approval must be obtained from their departments.

Under a new system the ceremonies will be held every two weeks.

Sahara Section Sealed

French Bomb Test Due Any Day Now

PARIS (AP)—France is expected to explode her first atomic weapon in the Sahara any day now. A successful blast would put France in the "nuclear weapon club" restricted so far to the United States, Russia and Britain.

The French defence ministry warned planes flying over the African desert to stay clear of certain areas beginning Monday. Speculation arose that the French were waiting only for favorable weather.

The device set off will be atomic, not a more-powerful hydrogen bomb weapon. The French are not believed to have reached the latter stage in their nuclear development.

Airliners flying over the Sahara—mostly French and British—were warned to stay clear of a zone around Reggane, in central Algeria about 600 miles from the Mediterranean and the same distance from the Atlantic.

Planes flying over the rest of the French Sahara were advised to remain above 10,000 feet, avoid certain other areas and keep in radio contact with French authorities.

The announcement gave no time limit for the regulation, saying only that they would be in force "for the months to come."

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Japan, U.S.

Treaty Signed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Japan signed a historic treaty Tuesday which President Eisenhower said sets up a new "indestructible partnership" between the U.S. and its former enemy.

Eisenhower and Japan's Prime Minister Kishi joined in signing the pact which raises Japan—once a defeated, disarmed and occupied enemy—to the status of equal partner in the free world camp.

One of the U.S. signers was Douglas MacArthur II, Ambassador to Japan.

The U.S. pledges to come to Japan's defence in case of armed attack on Japan, while Japan grants the U.S. use of military bases in Japan without time limit.

First Drug Charge Dismissed, 16 More Still to Be Heard

Charge of possession of drugs—first of four in Oak Bay police court and 13 in city court—was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate William Ostler.

James S. Scoular, 46, of 931 Inverness, was remanded eight days on the other charges, with bail of $3,000 continuing.

Magistrate Ostler recalled that Scoular was charged with having in his possession a quantity of pipadone, a synthetic pain-killing drug.

There was no evidence in the trial last week that this drug was not used medicinally, the magistrate said. While Scoular might be guilty of consulting several physicians without letting them know about the others, he was not charged with this.

Scoular was defended by counsel Kenneth Murphy, with W. Berkeley Monteith acting for the Crown.

Sentence of three months in jail was handed down in city court to Hans Hegenbart, 31, of 2645 Wark, who had pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm to a girl companion following a pre-Christmas party last month.

The magistrate noted a good probation report on Hegenbart, including service in the navy, but could not condone his "cowardly and contemptible" conduct.

There'll Be No Backing Out on Peace River Power, Says Bennett

Premier Bennett said yesterday there will be no backing out by the Peace River Power Development Company on its commitments to develop the hydro potential of the Peace River.

"The agreement of intents which was signed is definite and is binding," the premier said. "The government position was clear-cut and constant from the start."

Although the premier would admit to answering no one—because everybody has a right to his own views—he was obviously referring to Monday's statements by Peace River president W. C. Mainwaring that the Peace project would be abandoned if Columbia power became available in B.C. before 1968, unless export were permitted, or if firm contracts were not obtained from the B.C. Power Commission and the B.C. Electric.

"Any person who is not in favor of developing both the Columbia and the Peace is not in favor of developing B.C.

"If you are not in favor of the Columbia you are holding back development of the Kootenays . . . If you are not in favor of the Peace you are holding back development of central and north B.C.

"Whenever in the past, power development has taken place, industries have come to that area," Premier Bennett observed. "The government wants both rivers developed as soon as possible. To delay 20 years as has been suggested would hold back the development of British Columbia."

Asian Flu Epidemic Sweeps Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An influenza epidemic sweeping Los Angeles since early last week has been officially blamed on Asian flu. Absenteeism in schools, business and government continued at a high rate of up to 20 per cent.

Public schools yesterday reported 115,000 students absent along with 2,750 teachers.

Among those stricken was actress Marilyn Monroe.

Varsity Setup 'Fantastic'—Chant

PORTLAND, Ore.—Drivers of these parked cars didn't even try to move them as snow began falling on Portland yesterday. By late today, the cars were buried under the heavy snowfall.

Editorial Commendable

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant yesterday said it would be physically impossible to set out University of Victoria buildings in the manner shown in the sketch in The Daily Colonist Sunday.

The largest building in the sketch runs right through Foul Bay Road and into private dwellings, he said.

CHANGE "MUST"

He called it a "fantastic concept. There is not plenty of space on the existing site for such a layout," he said. He added that the layout of buildings would have to be changed from the artist's conception if they are to be located on the existing site.

He said that a Colonist editorial yesterday stating that a switchover of plans to Gordon Head can be affected without the slightest delay or inconvenience was "quite commendable."

DOWN TO EARTH

"The editorial brought the matter down to earth . . . it took a better look," Mr. Chant said.

He observed that to establish on the Gordon Head site was the longer view and that to establish on the present Mount Tolime site was the shorter view.

"But everybody should support the University of Victoria whether it is at Gordon Head or Mount Tolmie," he added.

ASSOCIATE DEFENCE MINISTER SEVIGNY . . . NATO calls tune

Parley Sets Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — Associate defence minister Sevigny said Tuesday night the amount of the Canadian defence budget is set by NATO.

He said the defence budget of $1,700,000,000 was arrived at during the NATO ministerial meeting and that Canada agreed to this figure.

ONLY SIX MONTHS

Mr. Sevigny, a member of the cabinet for only six months, made the statement in reply to questions at a televised press conference.

He said the Canadian defence budget was set at NATO "by agreement."

Asked whether any decrease could be expected in the 1960-61 defence budget in light of his statement that NATO fixed the amount, he said the defence department would try to achieve the same goal at lower cost.

$100,000,000

Mr. Sevigny was asked whether Canada could cut $100,000,000 from the defence budget if NATO had set its amount.

"We'd be free to try" if it were found possible without impairing defence efficiency in line with Canada's NATO commitments, the minister replied.

At another point, Mr. Sevigny said the defence department is trying to "devise every possible weapon" which would serve to protect Canadians.

STATEMENT CLASHED

This statement clashed with those of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Defence Minister Pearkes that Canada cannot afford to develop its own major weapons system.

Mr. Sevigny said he hopes Canada will have weapons to counteract any attack but he did not specify these weapons.

IN EVERY FIELD

The defence department was trying to be as modern as possible "in every field" within the means at its disposal. It was trying to prepare for all-out nuclear war as well as limited or conventional wars.

Mr. Sevigny also said he doesn't believe Canada will will have a bigger defence budget unless there are "extraordinary circumstances."

Canada Gives Millions

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will give India $7,000,000 worth of wheat and $11,500,000 worth of aluminum, copper and nickel, External Affairs Minister Green announced yesterday in the Commons.

The aid, provided under the Colombo Plan for economic aid to South and Southeast Asia, will also include some $6,500,000 in fertilizer, deisel locomotives, electronic equipwent and funds for nuclear and hydro work.

370,000 In Canada Jobless

OTTAWA (CP)—Winter unemployment in Canada is rising at about the usual pace but the situation as 1959 closed out was better than a year earlier.

Monthly government figures released Tuesday showed jobless at about mid-December up by 74,000 in a month and employment down by 90,000.

Calling the unemployment total of 370,000 an alarming waste of manpower, president Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress offered to have the CLC meet with government and employer representatives.

Snow

Portland Paralyzed

PORTLAND (AP)—Snow spread over most of the Pacific northwest Tuesday night, nearly paralyzing Portland.

The snow piled up in drifts and clogged Portland area roads. It came down steadily for more than 24 hours here and business firms began closing at mid-day as the snow kept customers at home and made it uncertain that employees could get home.

SCHOOLS SHUT

Some decided not to try to get home, and hotels were filled.

Schools were closed in the Portland area Tuesday. They will remain closed today.

There were up to nine inches of snow in Portland's downtown area Tuesday evening, and up to one foot in the higher elevations of the West Hills section.

CHAINS VITAL

Weather bureau forecasters said the snow would continue falling here through the night and most of today.

Police cautioned motorists to use chains.

And at Salem, Governor Mark Hatfield urged Oregon residents to stay off the roads if travel isn't an absolute necessity.

McPhillips' Pension Bill Read Once

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill of A. DeB. McPhillips (PC-Victoria) to remove restrictions on payment of old age pensions to Canadian citizens living abroad received first reading yesterday in the Commons. (See also Page 11.)

At present, Canadians 70 and over wishing to collect the universal old age pension of $55 a month are required to live six months of the year in Canada.

The throne speech forecast government action along these lines but gave no details.

41 Die, One Lives In Turkey Crash

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A French-made twin-jet plane of Scandinavian Airlines plunged into a hilltop within sight of Ankara's airport Tuesday night, killing 41 of the 42 persons aboard.

Two Canadian passengers were identified as Marielle Laurrenden and James Hopkins. There was nothing to indicate whether either might be the one survivor.

Airport experts said that although the weather was not ideal it had nothing to do with the crash.

The plane encountered heavy rain and wind as it approached Ankara.

Mysterious Air 'Victim' In Canada?

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Robert Spears of Dallas, Tex., once reported dead in a now-suspicious airliner crash in the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 16, may be staying in a Windsor, Ont., hotel.

Assistant district attorney Julian Blodgett said last night he has received a telegram stating Spears is in Windsor under the name of William Taylor of Tampa, Fla., who may have been on the plane in Spears' place. Probe of the crash concerns a possible bombing.

Segregation Firm's Idea

OTTAWA (UPI)—A United States company operating the Distant Early Warning line in Canada's north acted on its own initiative in ordering complete white-Eskimo social segregation, Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton said yesterday.

The minister pointed out, however, that the original Canadian-American agreement of 1955 on DEW Line operations contained a provision that contact between white and Eskimo employees be avoided except in cases of necessity or emergency.

There was no specific government instruction, however, on a Dec. 10, 1959, order by Federal Electric Corporation of Paramus, N.J., which instruced its white employees—under threat of dismissal—not to fraternize with Eskimos, Hamilton added.

Mervyn A. Hardie (L-MacKenzie River), who raised the matter in the Commons, quipped that Hamilton should interpret the general regulation to Transport Minister George Hees whose 1959 Christmas card carried a picture of he and his wife standing with two Eskimo children.

'Bible Storyland' Disneyland Rival

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—A $15,000,000 "Bible Storyland," complete with such features as a Garden of Eden and a Tower of Babel will be constructed at nearby Cucamonga, it was announced today.

The 220-acre park and amusement area will be in the shape of a heart, with Mount Baldy in the background, and will include rides such as a "Ride to Heaven" which ends at "the Pearly Gates" tended by "St. Peter."

"We are sure that 'Bible Storyland' will become a major attraction in the Los Angeles area," said the founder. "It will complement Disneyland and like Disneyland will become a 'must' for tourists from all over the world."

Expectant Queen's Spirits As High as Her Heels

LONDON (AP)—The Queen had British motherhood gasping Tuesday with a new fashion in expectancy - high heels.

Most doctors advise women to go into flats for the last two months of pregnancy. But the Queen, whose third baby is expected within weeks, came back to London Monday from her Christmas holidays with heels three inches high.

A physician consulted by a London newspaper took the high heels as a good omen.

"High heels are a sign of the Queen's high spirits and show that she is physically well," he said.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Fourteen Chicago police officers are charged with burglary. The prosecution says they are members of a gang, organized for theft.

Last year a number of highly respected people confessed lying publicly for pay, or acting a lie, on television.

Several television commercials have been proven dishonest. Numbers of others are equally dishonest, but no way has been found so far of proving the case against them.

Some politicians, caught telling outright lies, have grinned and tried to cover their faults by accusing their critics of something worse.

Some Approve It All

All these things have happened in recent times. I don't know whether or not the Chicago police are guilty. This has yet to be decided by a court. But a number of other policemen of certain North American cities have been found guilty of crimes.

It is nothing new for adult people in responsible positions to be caught lying and cheating. Such things have gone on since the beginning of time. What bothers me is the suspicion that such behavior is on the increase, and that it is, in some circles, approved behavior.

To people of this viewpoint, getting caught is just bad luck. There is no disgrace to it—except the disgrace of sloppy work.

I can't prove that a large number of people feel this way. But I feel strongly that a survey of ethics, conducted in Kinsey fashion under an oath of secrecy, would produce results that would shock the world.

Public Loves a Rogue

The lovable rogue has always been a favorite character in North America. He has taken many forms: the medicine show man who peddled syrup and water with a dash of alcohol for $1 a bottle; the Yankee who sold wooden nutmegs; the trader who sold a lame horse; the Robin Hood politician who made big money in graft but gave away most of it to the poor.

That was all right when the peddler sold his wares from a barrow, and the crooked political boss ruled a small town.

Nowadays, however, thanks to television and rapid transit, the huckster can stand up on his barrow and sell his wares to 40,000,000 people. The shady politician can control a state or a province, perhaps a nation.

All of a sudden, the lovable, comic rogue has become a monster whose shadow falls across thousands of miles.

TV Bidders' Pledge:

Mostly Canadian

VANCOUVER (CP)—Broadcasting schedules heavily loaded with Canadian programs in the evening were pledged to the Board of Broadcast Governors Tuesday by two applicants for Vancouver's second TV licence.

Biggest commitment came from Vantel Broadcasting Co. Ltd., headed by Arthur Jones, 34-year-old reporter-turned film producer. It promised 62-per cent Canadian content weekly between 8 and 11 p.m.

Pacific Television Co. Ltd., headed by financier F. Ronald Graham, said its Canadian content would reach 55.5 per cent in these hours. Both groups have placed heavy stress on local live productions and the use of British films, some of which count as 50-per-cent Canadian in BBG regulations.

Both of these commitments are, in terms of domestic content, the greatest yet made by any of the private groups seeking to enter competitive TV in Canada.

Vantel is the only group so far to say it has no other direct financial interest in any other TV or radio stations, or newspapers. Mr. Jones is president of Artray Ltd., a commercial film producing business.

Associated in Pacific Television with Mr. Graham are Frank McMahon and Lloyd Turner of Westcoast Transmission Co.; Col. Victor Spencer, financier; Walter Koerner, president of Rayonier of Canada Ltd.; Mrs. Frank Ross, wife of B.C.'s lieutenant-governor; Karl Springer, president of Pacific Western Airlines; Sir Denys Lowson, former Lord Mayor of London; Harold Bentall, vice-presdent of Dominion Construction Co., and H. L. Jestley, a lawyer.

Mr. Koerner has a 5.7 per cent interest in radio station CFUN, Vancouver and Mr. Graham holds 9.18 per cent of preferred shares of FP Publications Ltd., Winnipeg. None of the other shareholders has any interest in other media of communications.

Ernest L. Bushnell, former CBC vice-president, is a consultant to Pacific Television.

African House Faces No Confidence Motion

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters)—The leader of the opposition United party Tuesday night introduced a motion of no confidence in the government over its native policy.

Party leader Sir de Villiers Graaf said the government's theoretical solution for the color problem would signify a revolution in South Africa.

He said three factors had caused the government to introduce last year's promotion of the Bantu (African) self-government bill, which provides for the establishment of semi-autonomous tribal units within South Africa.

They were: World pressure on South Africa; the dissatisfaction of many members of the ruling National party and the expectations awakened in the minds of Africans by National party propaganda.

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed—and then are dull and listless throughout the day. All of which may be due to a temporary toxic condition which calls for the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Pills

Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they slow down and impurities stay in the system, disturbed rest, tired feeling and backache often follow. De Gaulle Criticized?

Massu Called Home By Jittery Paris

PARIS (Reuters) — President Charles de Gaulle summoned paratroop Gen. Jacques Massu from Algeria Tuesday to explain his reported criticism of de Gaulle's policies which were already under fire by white settlers there.

The sudden order to Paris came through the defence ministry as de Gaulle moved swiftly to check a growing challenge to his authority in the insurrection-torn North African territory.

Massu, a key figure in the 1958 Algerian army-settlers revolt which led de Gaulle back to power, has denied the criticisms.

MADE MISTAKE

The newspaper quoted Massu as saying the French army "perhaps made a mistake" in virtually acting as de Gaulle's shield-bearers in the "May revolt" of right wing settlers and army officers.

The report of Massu's criticism caused stocks on the Paris exchange to fall between five and eight per cent—reflecting fears of new trouble in Algeria, scene of a five-year-old nationalist revolt against French rule.

Snow-Buried Crop Aid Stirs Commons Storm

OTTAWA — The Liberals stirred up a Commons storm Tuesday over the government's procedure in agreeing to share the cost of acreage payments to Prairie farmers with snowed-in grain crops.

Paul Martin (L, Essex East) accused Prime Minister Diefenbaker of "dictatorship" and said he had improperly committed Parliament to expenditures already being made.

William Benidickson (L, Kenora-Rainy River) called it an affront to Parliament.

None of the Liberal critics, however opposed the actual payments.

Mr. Diefenbaker dismissed the criticism as "a dialectical argument about an imaginary unfairness done to Parliament" and said nothing has been done to deny Parliament the fullest opportunity to deal with the expenditure.

The dispute blew up suddenly as the Commons set aside the throne speech debate to deal with government legislation to aid Prairie grain farmers hit by early snows last fall.

Letters to the Editor

Deserted Wives

There has been a good deal said about a family court for this area. One of the reasons for a court is assistance for deserted wives. At the present time a good deal of expense is occasioned by the welfare for this purpose.

The Unemployment Commission can trace these erring husbands, but are not permitted to divulge any information. Legislation could be instituted to enable welfare agencies to obtain information necessary to prosecute these people.

An amendment to the divorce laws is vitally necessary. Divorce should be available and recognized as essential to well-being on other grounds than that of adultery. Desertion for three, five or seven years and cruelty are two reasons why the marriage could be annulled. Although this would conflict with some religious beliefs, freedom of religion is one of Canada's tenets.

FREDERICK JORDAN.
4821 Townsend Drive, R.R. 1, Royal Oak.

Grateful Family

We would like to thank your reporters, Mr. Harris and Mr. Smith, for their understanding and their rapid help. It was due to the publicity in the newspapers that we were able to locate our daughter so quickly.

May we also express our deep appreciation to the Saanich Police, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and those people who worked so unselfishly to help a very grateful family.

MR. AND MRS. F. V. WINCH.
2965 Telegraph Bay Road.

Help in Need

There are some things in life which are quite impossible to express in words. How can one begin to express thanks to the many, many people who have showed such deep concern and kindness toward my family and me since the sudden and tragic death of my husband last July? To personally thank everyone as I would like to do would be an immense and impossible task because many remain anonymous.

However, there are a number of clubs, organizations and societies to which I would like to give special thanks. They are the Lions' Club of Langford, whose efforts made it possible to pay off the mortgage on our home; the Langford Fire Department and its Ladies' Auxiliary, who helped conduct a door-to-door canvass for funds to make this possible; the fire departments of lower Vancouver Island who sponsored a benefit dance to help raise funds for this endeavor, and the Kinsmen's Club of Victoria, who raised the balance so that this mortgage might now be paid in full.

My thanks also go to Mr. W. Wainwright, Boorman Investments and the legal firms of Sullivan and Smith. I would also take this apportunity to thank the Canadian Legion, St. Edwards' Branch No. 91, and Rev. H. Behling for their help; the Dorcas Society of Belmont Lutheran Church, the Colonist "500" Christmas Fund, and all others who so thoughtfully remembered us at Christmas, and finally the Langford Fire Department, who saw to it that we were amply provided for at Christmas.

And last, but not least, I would again like to thank the many who directly or indirectly helped us through their prayers, words and deeds and who contributed in any way toward easing our burden. To one and all, then, a grateful "thank you," and may our Heavenly Father bless you as He has so graciously blessed us.

(MRS. ED.) ELSIE K. FISHER.

Zoo Drive Fails, Pool Drive On

NANAIMO—A drive will be launched shortly to raise $100,000 to build an enclosed, Olympic standard swimming pool in Nanaimo.

At the same time, it was announced yesterday that a $10,000 fund drive to save the Wellington zoo has flopped. Only 10 persons have volunteered to canvass, according to the Vancouver Island Zoological Society.

"The zoo could become a tremendous tourist attraction," said manager Paul Hertel. He said the chamber of commerce was always "anxious to get tourist attractions."

Kinsmen have been given the go-ahead by the city to raise funds for the pool, which would be built in city-owned Bowen Park.

Kinsmen swimming pool committee hopes it will receive support of more than 130 organizations in the drive.

Architect Fritz Schulze will complete working drawings and, if the city can qualify the project under the winter work emergency program, clearing of the site will be undertaken by the municipal authority.

'March' Goal Is $5,000

NANAIMO—Goal for this year's "Mothers' March on Polio" in Nanaimo is $5,000.

Don Podriske has been named campaign chariman; Trev Thompson, campaign secretary, and Mrs. Muriel MacKey, honorary marching mother.

The march will be held Jan. 30 between 6 and 7 p.m.

Police Will Curb Illegal Parkers

DUNCAN — Police served warning yesterday that they are cracking down on illegal parking here.

An officer said they will be keeping a close watch on the Farmers' Market area which is probably the most congested area in town.

Farmers parking their trucks and other motorists "flitting" into the provincial liquor store, are blamed for most of the offences.

Ald. John Kerrone also has suggested to city council that parking offences be enforced more rigorously this year.

Police said their actions have been urged by citizens who have made "numerous" complaints.

Capt. Groves Dies at 78

Royalty Saw His Cougars

DUNCAN — Capt. James Douglas Groves, 78, salty cougar hunter who lined some skins on a fence for Prince Philip and Queen Elizabeth to see on their tour last year, died in hospital.

Services will be held today at 2 p.m. in All Saints Anglican Church at Westholme, where he was a member.

Capt. Groves last year said he was sorry the royal couple had not stopped "to see a bit of Canada" represented by his skins, but happily noted it had made them smile.

Born in England he came to Canada in 1910 to settle in the Westholme district.

He served overseas in the First World War with the Derbyshire Yeomenry and later was wounded with the Sherwood Foresters. At the end of the war he was a captain.

Capt. Groves was the first president of the Great War Veterans Association and organizer of the Rangers here during the Second World War. He was also a member of the Canadian Legion.

Surviving are two sons, Tom at Westholm, and Lieut.-Col. J. J. D. Groves, Whitechurch, England; and grandchildren.

Burial will be in the churchyard cemetery.

Drowning Victim Funeral Thursday

PORT ALBERNI — Funeral services will be held in Stevens' chapel Thursday at 2 p.m. for William Weir Harrison, 49, of Great Central Lake.

Mr. Harrison drowned near his boathouse on Great Central Sunday when he was believed to have fainted and fallen in the water. The body was recovered after being found the same evening in six feet of water by Edward Sadzak of Great Central.

Born in Toronto, Mr. Harrison came to this district 2½ years ago. He was a welder.

Surviving are his wife, Isabella, and a son, Michael Barrie, 73 Cedar Street; his parents and a brother in Toronto; two sisters, Mrs. Madeline Goule, Toronto, and Mrs. Margaret Petty, Vancouver.

Rev. Roy Rodgers will conduct funeral services. Burial will be in Alberni Valley Memorial Gardens.

Debris Sighted Off Comox

RCAF to Drag Jet Crash Area

RCAF will resume a search early today for a Comox-based CF-100 jet fighter that plunged into Georgia Strait east of the air station early yesterday with two officers aboard.

Crash area was narrowed down to a point about five miles east-southeast of Cape Lazo, which is four miles east of Comox, after debris from the disintegrating aircraft was spotted floating on the surface of the sea late yesterday afternoon.

Search by RCAF crash boats and civilian craft was called off at dusk, but was set to resume at daybreak today.

400 FEET

A Comox air station spokesman said the plane is believed to be in about 400 feet of water and that attempts will be made today to drag the area where the debris was sighted.

Missing and presumed dead in the crash are FO Bryan Shaw, 24, of North Vancouver, the pilot, and FO Gordon Davis, 22, of Calgary, navigator.

The jet was on a routine training flight and had just completed a trial pass over the RCAF airfield when it crashed at 1.20 a.m. A loud explosion was heard at the base and the tug Florence Fillberg reported seeing a red flare.

RCAF discounted reports of a yellow dye—normally automatically ejected from a downed CF-100—being spotted on the sea during the early part of the search. It was probably floating wood pulp, an official said.

OIL SLICK

An oil slick was sighted during the day about 13 miles east of Comox. Samples of the oil were to be tested to see if it could have come from a jet plane.

Late in the afternoon, however, the air force said it was believed the plane had gone down in the area originally pin-pointed after the small chunks of debris were found.

Taking part in the search yesterday were two RCAF crash boats, civilian craft and land search parties that combed shorelines in the area.

Post Office Issue Hot Again

ALBERNI — The postal service issue, carried on the unfinished business agenda for many months, was referred to committee for discussion following the regular Alberni council meeting Monday night. Decision, according to the referral motion, is to be given at the next regular meeting on Jan. 25.

Ald. C. M. Blair explained that the need for further committee discussion was indicated when Mayor Mabel S. Anderson had expressed a doubt as to admissability of a letter which had been referred to the incoming council.

The letter, from the postmaster general to former mayor Jack Luckhurst, had been marked personal and confidential but, Ald. T. S. Barnett pointed out, had contained definite proposals for council action.

The letter, which had reiterated information that letter carrier service would be instituted only as an extension of the Port Alberni system, gave authority to council to hold a referendum vote in the event that council was not prepared to make a decision on its own.

Alberni post office would be closed and sub-post office service inaugurated if the letter carrier service is adopted.

Sideswipe Blame Decided by Court

DUNCAN — Robert James Whittaker, 53, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving after being in a sideswipe collision last Dec. 24.

"I don't think to this day that either of us can figure which one of us was to blame," he told the court yesterday before being fined $25.

But police said he crossed the centre lane and sideswiped the other car on Cowichan Lake Road west of Duncan. His car was wrecked when it hit a telephone pole.

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market slipped into general weakness.

Trade volume again was small in the absence of any new market influences. Pakistan bought about 1,750,000 bushels of hard wheat overnight and was in the market for additional amounts but that business had been long expected and appeared to have no effect in the pit.

Peace River Development

Power Price—.6 Cents

★ ★ ★

Could Be Double Rate Of Columbia Current

★ ★ ★

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Peace River Power Development Company is prepared to sell electric power at the U.S. boundary at about .6 cents per kilowatt hour if it could get an export permit.

This figure was given by W. C. Mainwaring, president of the company, during an interview in Victoria this week, and to power experts it indicated that it would be around this six-mills mark that Peace River will offer to supply power to southern B.C. for 1968 delivery.

COMPETITIVE BASIS

Hitherto, the Peace River company has done no more than affirm that it would lay down power on a competitive basis, and power people may agree that six mills is indeed quite a competitive figure.

It compares, for instance, with the .63 mill rate which will be the cost of the new B.C. Electric thermal plant generation on Burrard Inlet.

But it could be almost double the rate at which electrical power from the Columbia River—thanks to downstream benefits — might be available to the B.C. utility companies.

END MARCH

As things are now shaping, Peace River Company will know by the end of March whether the first leg of its application for a water licence has been successful.

If it is, then Peace River will want an early answer from B.C. Electric and B.C. Hydro—its two largest potential customers — whether they are willing to buy their power on a long-term contract.

The answer from the two utilities will not be an easy one to give, unless by that time there is a firm undertaking that cheaper hydro will be available from the Columbia River when it is needed.

LARGE BLOCK

Put yourself in the position of the two B.C. utilities. They know that by late 1960s they will require a large block of extra power. The decision as to where they will get it must be made at least five years before it is needed.

If Peace River offers a firm delivery of 1,000,000 horsepower at, say, six mills, would they be entitled, as servants of the public, to decline it in the hope that Columbia power might be available to them at three mills?

Whatever decision they make, the utilities might be proved wrong, for it does not seem likely that any firm commitment on Columbia River power is to be expected within the present time limit the B.C. government has set for the Peace River company.

One way in which the problem might be solved for the B.C. utilities and for the B.C. consumers, would be a decision of the government to hold up its approval of the Peace River project until further information is available on the Columbia.

A delay of up to two years could be absorbed without altering the 1968 delivery date of Peace River power.

Mr. Mainwaring says Peace major work of installing the first 1,000,000 horsepower of electricity could be tackled in six years, and that indeed very little will be done in actual construction work until late 1962.

In view of the utmost importance of the cheapest possible power to the B.C. economy, it is, at least, to be hoped that irrevocable decisions will not be made until they are absolutely necessary on a time-fulfillment basis.

Awards of Merit

Merit awards and scrolls for long service in association executive posts were presented last night to Jack Wilson, top, president, and Henry Watson, past president of the Victoria branch of the National Office Management Association, by James Anderson.—(Colonist Photo.)

GAS SURFEIT SEEN

George A. Wilkinson, former president of the Pipeline Contractors Association of Canada said in Victoria last week, that there is a grave danger that Canada may miss its market for natural gas in the United States.

Mr. Wilkinson said that recent exploration had shown that huge reserves of natural gas were being proved up under the seas along the U.S. coast.

"It may not be long before the United States will have all the natural gas it needs, and if our export permits are held up indefinitely, we may lose our chance of disposing of gas to the middle west states," said Mr. Wilkinson.

NEW TAR SAND BID

Another large research project on the Athabaska tar sands is being launched by four major oil companies with Cities Service Athabaska as operators.

Taking part each with 30 per cent interest are Cities Service (parent company of the operators), Imperial Oil and Richfield Oil Corp., with Royalite holding a 10 per cent interest.

Individual research activities have been carried on by the four companies for several years, and the companies now believe that the extraction of the 40,000,000,000 barrels of oil from the sands can be solved by new techniques.

As Tourists Drift on Gorge—Sweet Music Plays

Tourists were pictured yesterday drifting up and down the Gorge to music, admiring the illuminated, landscaped scenery.

The man who painted the picture was R. A. Mackie, general manager of Canadian Pacific hotels, and he told the Kiwanis Club he thought it would be a "tremendous" tourist attraction.

Imaginative ideas like this might at times seem to be "gimmicks," he said, but they have great appeal to tourists: these were the things that tourists photographed and talked about, as they photographed and talked about the Butchart Gardens, imaginatively transformed from a cement quarry into a great attraction.

Canadians must be resourceful and imaginative, he said, if they want to expand the tourist business, "unquestionably one of our major industries which benefits every phase of our economy.

In the fact of increased competition for tourist trade and increased ability to go to faraway places by jet aircraft, Mr. Mackie called for continued efforts to make Canada more attractive to tourists.

"First-class service is a must," he said. "In addition, and particularly to appeal to the American tourists, more attractive and interesting activities must be arranged. Scenery alone is not enough."

Visitors, he suggested, are "quite happy to visit, photograph and sight-see in the daytime," but want entertainment in the evenings, and if they can't find it, "we can't get them back again."

Break-Ins, Theft

Church Raid Charges Face Juvenile Trio

Three juveniles face at least nine charges in juvenile court here after two days of investigation by city Juvenile Officers Lyle Somers and Norman Galbraith.

Seven of the charges involve break-ins, including a raid on First Church of Christ Scientist in which the building was desecrated by vandalism and stamps worth $25 and a flashlight were stolen.

Other break-ins charged to various members of the trio include those at Victoria High School, North Ward School, the Pepsi-Cola plant at 2954 Bridge, and private homes on Vancouver and Green Streets.

In addition, they face charges of theft of two cars, a set of licence plates, and possession of stolen goods.

The three were arrested by Duncan RCMP Sunday after they rolled and wrecked one of the cars reported stolen just outside that city on the old Island Highway.

Victoria juvenile officers brought the three to Victoria Monday, and their subsequent investigation resulted in the charges facing the boys.

Thousands of Dogs Liable to 'Arrest'

Rescued from Poundkeeper

Holding her West Highland White, "Winkie," after rescuing him from the clutches of a poundkeeper for lack of a 1960 licence, Mrs. W. V. McCord sticks staunchly to her contention that a new licence isn't necessary until March 1. — (Colonist photo.)

Licences Fell Due Jan. 1

* * *

Thousands of dogs in Victoria, Esquimalt and Oak Bay are operating without licences.

However, their owners can probably get away with it until March, providing that the dogs stay home, or at heel.

$1 DISCOUNT

Confused dog owners took note of the fact that the city offered a $1 discount on dog-licence fees if they were paid before March. They assumed that even though licences fell due on the first of the year, they were allowed two months' grace.

Philip Wilkinson, secretary-manager of Victoria branch, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said last night that many dog-owners were mistaken about this.

LAW STILL STANDS

Even though the city paid dog owners $1 to observe the law (as an inducement to prompt payment) the law still stood: licences fall due each Jan. 2.

In practice, he added, the SPCA won't enforce the licence rigidly until March—unless a dog is "arrested" for running at large. Owners of impounded dogs will have to pay the licence at once.

Some time after the beginning of March, SPCA employees will begin knocking on doors and demanding licence fees.

COME TO LIGHT

These facts came to light after Mrs. William McCord, one of the many dog owners who believed they had until March to pay, got in a dispute with an SPCA inspector.

The dog had stopped to sniff a bench, according to his usual custom when out for a walk. The woman who owned the dog kept on walking, until she was 30 feet ahead, out of sight around a balustrade.

She turned to call him. He didn't come. An SPCA truck was parked at the curb, and inspector Clifford Ladd was trying to pull the dog in.

CURRENT LICENCE

"He doesn't have a current licence," the inspector said.

"I have until March to pay," the owner answered.

"No you haven't," said the inspector. "And the dog was running at large."

"He was with me," the owner contended. The argument might have taken an unpleasant turn, but someone came up to the inspector to lay a complaint about some other dog. Meanwhile, woman and dog walked away.

20 CALLS DAY

"I get 10 to 20 calls a day about dogs running loose, from motorists, gardeners and school teachers, about dogs following children to school," said Inspector Ladd.

"The pressure is on us, so we're clamping down."

Secretary-manager Philip Wilkinson said: "We get 17,000 calls a year, chiefly complaints. This year we felt we weren't fulfilling our responsibilities under our contract to the city, Esquimalt and Oak Bay satisfactory, so we put on another man."

"We have two inspectors on all day now."

The SPCA took over licencing and poundkeeping in the city and two municipalities, in 1957.

Artificial Organ Like Washing Machine

Life Hangs on 'Kidney'

Single Failure Can Be Fatal

A 40-year-old Victoria man is alive today in Royal Jubilee Hospital because of a $1,500 artificial kidney which looks and acts like a washing machine and which has been used twice in the past two years.

It is the only one on Vancouver Island and possibly one of only three in British Columbia.

TEAM OF NINE

And each time it is trundled out of storage a team of no less than nine people brace themselves for an hours-long vigil when a single mechanical or human failure can cost a life.

Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical administrator at Royal Jubilee, said yesterday that in its most recent application here the artificial kidney was in operation for some 12 hours and that most of the team stayed with it for the full period.

IN DANGER

The team, which consists of laboratory technicians, nurses, medical specialists, a surgeon, a biochemist and a heart specialist, is called into action when a patient's kidneys have failed for up to four days and his life is in danger from the degree of toxins or waste products left in the bloodstream.

Kidney failure is usually brought about by an overdose of drugs, severe drug reaction, a serious infection or a severe transfusion reaction.

If the kidneys fail to resume operation after three or four days the artificial kidney is readied for use—a two-hour operation in itself.

SPECIAL CHEMICAL

Essentially it consists of a pump similar to a heart pump, a tank filled with a special chemical solution and a tube which runs from an artery of the patient through the tank and back to a vein.

The tube is semi-permeable, which means that it passes the toxins out of the bloodstream and into the solution in the "kidney" without passing any of the blood along with it, a process known as dialyses.

The latest artificial kidney patient, whom hospital officials declined to identify, is today in "improved" condition.

Where Is It Better?

'Droves of Pensioners' Won't Desert Victoria

Old-age pensioners may be planning to leave the rest of British Columbia in droves but they aren't going to desert Victoria.

That was the opinion of spokesmen for more than 1,000 city pensioners last night when they were asked to predict the outcome of proposed legislation to make pensions payable outside Canada. (See also Page 1.)

A Vancouver official of the 9,000-member B.C. Old-Age Pensioners Organization predicted earlier that as many as 22,000 of B.C.'s 110,000 pensioners might leave the country if Ottawa enacts the "pay-anywhere" plan.

"Victoria is the most ideal place in the world—why would they want to leave here?" asked John Milling, president of the 200-member Victoria Old-Age Pensioners Organization No. 5.

"What's the use of going back to England—very few of us have any friends left there.

"I think most pensioners would want to spend their remaining days right here.

"Fewer pensioners will leave Victoria than other cities in B.C."

Peter Davey, secretary of the No. 3 unit, which boasts some 400 members, agreed, saying, "I like it here just fine—it's not too hot and not too cold.

"I think maybe it's an expensive place to live but I say that fewer will leave here than the rest of the province." He said that of those who are drawn away from Victoria the cost of living will be the major factor in sending them off seeking greener pastures.

He thought a few might move to Florida where he found that living costs are slightly below those in B.C.

R. H. French, president of the No. 1 unit with close to 500 members, thought the Vancouver figures were too high.

"I've heard several say they would like to spend their last days in the Old Country — I know I'd like to but I haven't got the funds to get there.

"But I don't think anything like 20 per cent would leave Victoria, although that may be right for the rest of the province."

Owen Karn, president of the Silver Threads Service, a co-ordinating organization, said of the proposed new legislation "I would very much doubt if it would cause many to take off from here."

And of those who did leave, he added, most would come back if they could afford the fare.

"If they go back to the Old Country they will find it just isn't like it used to be and within a year they would be back.

"Leaving here would be a pretty expensive proposition to start with."

But the new legislation might make serious inroads onto Victoria's reputation as a Mecca for Canadian retirement.

Just before his casket was lowered into the grave, Mrs. Sabiston collapsed into the arms of another son, Albert, of 3903 Saanich Road.

Saanich police emergency car rushed her to St. Joseph's Hospital, but she was dead on arrival.

Varsity Editorial Praised

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant yesterday said it would be physically impossible to set out University of Victoria buildings in the manner shown in the sketch in The Daily Colonist Sunday.

The largest building in the sketch runs right through Foul Bay Road and into private dwellings, he said.

CHANGE "MUST"

He called it a "fantastic concept. There is not plenty of space on the existing site for such a layout," he said. He added that the layout of buildings would have to be changed from the artist's conception if they are to be located on the existing site.

He said that a Colonist editorial yesterday stating that a switchover of plans to Gordon Head can be affected without the slightest delay or inconvenience was "quite commendable."

DOWN TO EARTH

"The editorial brought the matter down to earth . . . it took a better look," Mr. Chant said.

He observed that to establish on the Gordon Head site was the longer view and that to establish on the present Mount Tolime site was the shorter view.

"But everybody should support the University of Victoria whether it is at Gordon Head or Mount Tolmie," he added.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Drivers of these parked cars didn't even try to move them as snow began falling on Portland yesterday. By nightfall, the cars were buried under the heavy snowfall.

Snow

Portland Paralyzed

PORTLAND (AP)—Snow spread over most of the Pacific northwest Tuesday night, nearly paralyzing Portland.

The snow piled up in drifts and clogged Portland area roads. It came down steadily for more than 24 hours here and business firms began closing at mid-day as the snow kept customers at home and made it uncertain that employees could get home.

SCHOOLS SHUT

Some decided not to try to get home, and hotels were filled.

Schools were closed in the Portland area Tuesday. They will remain closed today.

There were up to nine inches of snow in Portland's downtown area Tuesday evening, and up to one foot in the higher elevations of the West Hills section.

CHAINS VITAL

Weather bureau forecasters said the snow would continue falling here through the night and most of today.

Police cautioned motorists to use chains.

And at Salem, Governor Mark Hatfield urged Oregon residents to stay off the roads if travel isn't an absolute necessity.

Police said that at least three persons died while scooping snow off sidewalks — victims of apparent heart attacks.

Segregation Firm's Idea

OTTAWA (UPI)—A United States company operating the Distant Early Warning line in Canada's north acted on its own initiative in ordering complete white-Eskimo social segregation, Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton said yesterday.

The minister pointed out, however, that the original Canadian-American agreement of 1955 on DEW Line operations contained a provision that contact between white and Eskimo employees be avoided except in cases of necessity or emergency.

There was no specific government instruction, however, on a Dec. 10, 1959, order by Federal Electric Corporation of Paramus, N.J., which instructed its white employees—under threat of dismissal—not to fraternize with Eskimos, Hamilton added.

Mervyn A. Hardie (L-Mac-Kenzie River), who raised the matter in the Commons, quipped that Hamilton should interpret the general regulation to Transport Minister George Hees whose 1959 Christmas card carried a picture of he and his wife standing with two Eskimo children.

Quake Shakes California

HOLLISTER, Calif. (UPI)—A strong earthquake rocked a wide area along the California coast last night but no major damage was reported.

The quake was apparently centred in the rugged Pinnacles national monument area south of here. It was felt in the San Francisco Bay area, 100 miles north.

Objects were knocked from shelves here and plaster was broken, but there were no reports of major damage.

41 Die, One Lives In Turkey Crash

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A French-made twin-jet plane of Scandinavian Airlines plunged into a hilltop within sight of Ankara's airport Tuesday night, killing 41 of the 42 persons aboard.

Two Canadian passengers were identified as Marielle Laurrenden and James Hopkins. There was nothing to indicate whether either might be the one survivor.

Airport experts said that although the weather was not ideal it had nothing to do with the crash.

The plane encountered heavy rain and wind as it approached Ankara.

The plane, bound from Stockholm and Copenhagen to the Middle East, carried 35 passengers and a crew of seven.

Mysterious Air 'Victim' In Canada?

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Robert Spears of Dallas, Tex., once reported dead in a now-suspicious airliner crash in the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 16, may be staying in a Windsor, Ont., hotel.

Parley Sets Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — Associate defence minister Sevigny said Tuesday night the amount of the Canadian defence budget is set by NATO.

He said the defence budget of $1,700,000,000 was arrived at during the NATO ministerial meeting and that Canada agreed to this figure.

ONLY SIX MONTHS

Mr. Sevigny, a member of the cabinet for only six months, made the statement in reply to questions at a televised press conference.

He said the Canadian defence budget was set at NATO "by agreement."

Asked whether any decrease could be expected in the 1960-61 defence budget in light of his statement that NATO fixed the amount, he said the defence department would try to achieve the same goal at lower cost.

$100,000,000

Mr. Sevigny was asked whether Canada could cut $100,000,000 from the defence budget if NATO had set its amount.

"We'd be free to try" if it were found possible without impairing defence efficiency in line with Canada's NATO commitments, the minister replied.

At another point, Mr. Sevigny said the defence department is trying to "devise every possible weapon" which would serve to protect Canadians.

STATEMENT CLASHED

This statement clashed with those of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Defence Minister Pearkes that Canada cannot afford to develop its own major weapons system.

Mr. Sevigny said he hopes Canada will have weapons to counteract any attack but he did not specify these weapons.

IN EVERY FIELD

The defence department was trying to be as modern as possible "in every field" within the means at its disposal. It was trying to prepare for all-out nuclear war as well as limited or conventional wars.

Mr. Sevigny also said he doesn't believe Canada will will have a bigger defence budget unless there are "extraordinary circumstances."

370,000 In Canada Jobless

OTTAWA (CP)—Winter unemployment in Canada is rising at about the usual pace but the situation as 1959 closed out was better than a year earlier.

Monthly government figures released Tuesday showed jobless at about mid-December up by 74,000 in a month and employment down by 90,000.

Calling the unemployment total of 370,000 an alarming waste of manpower, president Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress offered to have the CLC meet with government and employer representatives.

Expectant Queen's Spirits As High as Her Heels

LONDON (AP)—The Queen had British motherhood gasping Tuesday with a new fashion in expectancy — high heels.

Most doctors advise women to go into flats for the last two months of pregnancy. But the Queen, whose third baby is expected within weeks, came back to London Monday from her Christmas holidays with heels three inches high.

A physician consulted by a London newspaper took the high heels as a good omen.

"High heels are a sign of the Queen's high spirits and show that she is physically well," he said.

There'll Be No Backing Out on Peace River Power, Says Bennett

Premier Bennett said yesterday there will be no backing out by the Peace River Power Development Company on its commitments to develop the hydro potential of the Peace River.

"The agreement of intents which was signed is definite and is binding," the premier said. "The government position was clear-cut and constant from the start."

Although the premier would admit to answering no one—because everybody has a right to his own views—he was obviously referring to Monday's statements by Peace River president W. C. Mainwaring that the Peace project would be abandoned if Columbia power became available in B.C. before 1968, unless export were permitted, or if firm contracts were not obtained from the B.C. Power Commission and the B.C. Electric.

"Any person who is not in favor of developing both the Columbia and the Peace is not in favor of developing B.C.

"If you are not in favor of the Columbia you are holding back development of the Kootenays . . . If you are not in favor of the Peace you are holding back development of central and north B.C.

"Whenever in the past, power development has taken place, industries have come to that area," Premier Bennett observed. "The government wants both rivers developed as soon as possible. To delay 20 years as has been suggested would hold back the development of British Columbia."
